Mohr Trial Set Forward a Dayto Correct Error

Providence, Jan. 3.—The date for the opening of the trial of Mrs. Elizabeth Blair Mohr and three negroes, on a charge of murdering Mrs. Mohr's husband, Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, was today set forward from Tuesday, January 11, to Monday January 10.

Judge Elmer J. Rathbun reassigned the case, on the request of Attorney-General Herbert A. Rice, who said a mistake had been made in the original date.

Mrs. Mohr's attorneys urged a two weeks' delay, but Judge Rathbun refused it. In the course of their arguments, the attorneys became so heated that Judge Rathbun cautioned them.

The Attorney-General's office said today that Martha Wilson and Elsie Mueller, two witnesses who have been out of the jurisdiction of the court for some time, had been found in Chicago and would testify at the trial.

TWO MEN BLOWN TO SEA

Signal Flashed Out from Minot's Light Calls Life-Saving Crews to Attempt Rescue of Occupants of Disabled Boat in Gale

Hull and Scituate life-savers and the lighthouse tender Mayflower searched the bay east of Minot's Light this afternoon for two men who were drifting helplessly out to sea in a power boat.

One of the men in the boat, which had broken down several miles offshore, was keeper of the Minot's Light.

The Scituate lifesavers, who were the first to put out to the rescue of the men, reported a gale blowing from the West.

The Scituate station telephoned to Provincetown, asking the revenue cutter Gresham to aid in the hunt for the two men.

FORCED TO PUT BACK.

The life savers at Point Allerton, Hull, ere also called into the search. Captain Sparrow, at 1:30 this afternoon put out in the station's high-speed motor boat and scoured the waters for miles to the east of Minot's.

The Scituate life savers, who were in a rowboat, at one time sighted the two men four or five miles to the eastward, but the lifeboat was forced to put back to shore.

The two men set out from Cohasset at 11 a. m., in a small power-boat. This had gotten close to Minot's when something went wrong. From the lighthouse there flashed out a red and white flag, known as code flag "H," as a signal to the Scituate lifesavers that immediate help was needed.

The crew at once launched their boat, in charge of Non-Commissioned Officer Murphy.

Upon their return the crew reported that they believed the two men would be rescued before nightfall, and stated that the wind was abating, lessening the danger of the two men whose craft had been blown to sea after being disabled.

The search caused keen interest along the shore from Hull to Scituate, and scores of persons stood on the shore seeking to locate the missing men with spy-glasses.

MYSTERY IN HOTEL DEATH

George Anderson of Albany, N. Y., Found in Courtyard at Revere House with Throat Cut—Blood-Stained Razor in His Room

The body of a man who registered as George Anderson, thirty-five years old, of Albany, N. Y., was found dead in the courtyard at the Revere House at noon today. The man's throat had been cut.

The police said they thought the man may have cut his throat and leaped from a third story window, or he may have been killed and thrown from a window.

In the man's room the police found a razor covered with blood. From the Albany police the Boston authorities learned that a George Anderson had been in the employ of the Randolph Publishing Company of that city.

The body was taken to the North Grove street morgue to be viewed by Medical Examiner Magrath.

According to the police, the man registered at the hotel on December 27, telling the clerk he had been employed by the Randolph Publishing Company of Albany. This description of him was given out by the police:

Thirty-five years old, five feet ten inches n height, medium complexion, smooth shaven, with two gold upper front teeth, black sack coat with white pencil stripe; dark mixed trousers, soft white shirt with black stripes, black shoes and stockings.

3 VETERANS DIE AT SOLDIERS' HOME

PERSIA CARRIED GUNS

By SYDNEY B. CAVE, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Jan. 3.—Official announcement was made by the Peninsular & Oriental Steam Navigation Company today that the liner Persia carried guns.

This admission by the owners of the liner sunk in the Mediterranean may remove one source of friction between the United States and the Teutonic powers.

At the time the Lusitania was torpedoed German naval officials claimed that the Cunard liner carried guns, but this was officially denied by the British admiralty, whose statement was accepted by the United States as basis for the contention that the Lusitania was an unarmed, defenseless ship.

Responsibility for the destruction of the Persia, with the loss of nearly 200 lives, including one American, was placed upon Austria today in dispatches from Cairo.

These brought the first definite information that the submarine which sank the Persia in the Mediterranean last Thursday was an Austrian vessel.

The dispatches also reiterated the part and will continue to Rotterdam nounced this evening that the Glengyle carried a gun.

The Glengyle was bigger than the Peninsula & Oriental liner Persia. It displaced 9,000 tons.

The Glengyle was owned by McGregor, Gow & Co. of Glasgow and was one of the finest steamers in the Oriental service.

Reports that the Glengyle was destroyed near the spot where the Persia was torpedoed gave rise to the belief that both may have been attacked by the same submarine.

The heavy destruction to shipping in the Mediterranean indicates that the Teutonic powers have a large fleet of under-water boats watching the steamer lane in the Mediterranean, particularly near the Suez Canal.

The Glengyle was a new boat, having been built in 1914. She hailed from Glasgow. Her length was five hundred feet and she was sixty-two feet in the beam.

London was the ultimate destination of the Glengyle. She carried a cargo of foodstuffs in cold storage.

Many of the survivors were taken to Malta, and it was from that port that the captain of the liner cabled news of the disaster.

There were only about a hundred passengers on the Glengyle, the captain said, and all were saved.

Ten members of the crew were missing, and it was believed that all lost their lives.

The British steamer St. Oswald has been sunk by a submarine, it was announced this afternoon. The vessel displaced 3,180 tons and was employed in the government service.

Ship Unwarned, Says Survivor

London, January 3.

THE Peninsular & Oriental Steamship Company has received the following telegram from Colonel C. C. Bigham, who was among the survivors of the Persia disaster:

"A torpedo struck the ship on the port bow at 1:05 o'clock in the afternoon when about forty miles south of the east end of the Island of Crete.

"No warning was given, nor any attempt made to assist.

"Within five minutes the ship had sunk. It was impossible to lower the Liverpool boats owing to the heavy list. Five or six boats were lowered on the port side. I didn't see this myself, as I was washed overboard when the boat capsized.

"The conduct of the passengers and crew was splendid; there was no struggling and no panic. Four boats, after thirty hours at sea, were picked up by a warship."

Explosion on Ship, Following Torpedo

By International News Service.

Alexandria, Egypt, Jan. 3.—Many of the lifeboats on the Peninsular & Oriental liner Persia were destroyed by an explosion that followed the impact of the torpedo, it was said by survivors who were landed here.

The passengers were at lunch when the attack was made and all were taken by surprise. Even the lookout on the ship did not see the submarine, which remained hidden beneath the surface.

"The torpedo struck on the starboard side between the funnels, ripping a big hole both below and above the waterline," survivors declared that the hole was big enough for a street car to enter.

A geyser of water was thrown high into the air, drenching the entire ship. Immediately the liner began to settle, rolling over farther and farther upon her starboard side as the water poured into the gap.

Just after the torpedo struck home an explosion occurred on board the Persia which tore away much of the upper works. Many lifeboats were destroyed and the sea was littered with debris.

Officers warned all passengers to make haste in donning life belts, as the vessel was sinking rapidly. In the meantime the ship had swung over so far that it was almost impossible to swing the remaining lifeboats over the side.

One boat filled with men, women and children was upset by a sudden lurch of the sinking ship and all the occupants were thrown into the water. Four other boats, which had been successfully launched, were lashed together with ropes. These were found by a mine sweeper, 350 miles from Alexandria, and the survivors were brought here.

A fifth boat was sighted drifting in a southerly direction, but at last reports it had not been found.

At least twenty-eight children were killed.

Transylvania Once Escaped U-Boats

Among the vessels Austria claims her submarines have destroyed, the most important and the one of most interest to the United States is the Transylvania.

At the time the Lusitania was sunk, the Transylvania was about to sail from New York. She did sail, with a large passenger list. Then it became known that she had been threatened with destruction as had the Lusitania.

The vessel was warned by wireless, and the whole country waited anxiously for news of her safe arrival in Liverpool.

No news came on the date set for her arrival; and anxiety increased till news was received that she had made port at Greenock, Scotland, having gone to the north of Ireland, to avoid the submarines.

Immediately after this voyage, the Transylvania was taken by the Admiralty for war service, and since that time she has not figured in the news in any way till from Vienna comes this claim that she has been sunk.

The Transylvania is—or was—567 feet long, with a gross tonnage of 14,000, and a displacement of about 20,000 tons when loaded. She was taken over by the Cunard line from the Anchor line early in the war.

PRESIDENT HASTENS BACK

President. "The situation is grave."

All of the facts dealing with the renewed submarine activity both in the Mediterranean and North Seas will be presented to the President for his consideration. He will then decide whether to call a special cabinet meeting and also whether he will confer with members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Because Consul Garrels at Alexandria reported that no submarine was seen in the attack on the liner Persia, the State Department today decided to put the question of responsibility for the sinking of that vessel directly up to Austria.

Secretary Lansing cabled Ambassador Penfield at Vienna to ask the Austrian Foreign Office if one of its submarines torpedoed the Persia. He also directed him to obtain information regarding any Austrian submarines that may be operating in the Mediterranean whose commanders have not been in touch with the Foreign Office recently.

Baron Erich Zwiedinek, charge of the Austrian Embassy, called on Secretary Lansing today to assure him that if it was an Austrian submarine that sank the Persia, and that if the attack was not warranted, his government would "arrange a satisfactory settlement" with the United States.

"Situation Grave," Wilson Is Informed.

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Secretary Lansing told the President very frankly over the long distance telephone today that he considered the international situation most grave. The President immediately directed Secretary Tumulty to send a special train to Hot Springs, to carry him back to the Capital.

Lansing and Tumulty held a long conference, after which the Presidential secretary said that the question of a special cabinet meeting would not be finally decided until the President returned, but that he believed one would be held tomorrow.

The big question under consideration, officials frankly said, was whether the promises that have been made by Germany and Austria are to be accepted in good faith.

Baron Zwiedinek, the Austrian charge, hurried to the State Department and personally assured Secretary Lansing that Austria's promises would be carried out to the letter. He declared that if an Austrian submarine commander was at fault, he felt certain that his government would disavow his act in the fullest manner and would also see that adequate punishment was meted out.

Secretary Lansing, it is understood, told the charge that this government would maintain an "open mind" until all of the facts are before it.

STONE SEES LANSING.

Senator Stone, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, also conferred at length with Secretary Lansing today. Stone said that the situation was very serious and would require most careful handling. He declined to forecast what action, if any, would be taken.

Secretary Lansing afterward said that he was still doing his best to ascertain the identity of the submarine which sank the Persia. He stated that he had received no information whatever regarding the sinking of other liners, including the Glengyle, that have been reported sunk. When the Secretary was asked whether he favored taking up the entire question of submarine warfare in a joint note to all of the central Teutonic powers, so that all might know finally the views of this government and realize that further "running amuck" would result in a definite breaking off of diplomatic relations, he said:

"That is a question which it would be improper for me to discuss at this time."

Regarding the suggestion that while the submarines that are now operating in the Mediterranean by the Austrian and, in some cases, the Turkish flag, they are commanded by Germans officers, the Secretary said that this was something that this government could not take up. He explained that it was the nationality of the vessel, not of its officers, that must be taken into consideration.

HOLD TO "LAW OF HUMANITY."

On the question of arming of passenger liners for defence, secretary Lansing said that he could say nothing at this time. It was made plain that the correspondence of September 15, 1914, in which the then Secretary Bryan outlined that merchant vessels might carry guns up to six inches mounted after for defence, the defence contention being proven by the carrying of non-combatants, especially women and children, as passengers, was the position taken by this government concerning vessels using its ports.

Since that time, the secretary frankly said, submarine warfare has been developed and a gun even as small as three-inch calibre might easily sink a submarine. But the secretary would not comment on what might, if any, this government would give to any defence of the sinking of the Persia, predicated on the fact that she was armed. From other administration sources, however, it was learned that any such defence would be promptly rejected, this government holding that the "law of humanity" if not the strict interpretation of international law, demands that non-combatants shall not be placed in jeopardy on the high seas via the passengers on regular passenger liners.

At the Austrian and German embassies officials were very much concerned. They feared that public sentiment will fail to take into consideration that the Persia may have been sunk through striking a mine or by a submarine commander who failed to obey orders issued to him.

The fact that the administration has used the sharpest language to Austria throughout all of the Ancona correspondence has caused officials of the embassy to believe that a break would be not very unwelcome.

GUNS WERE CARRIED BY PERSIA

charge that the Persia was torpedoed without warning. Only mere idiom displaces, they stated, prevented the death of every man, woman and child on board.

A dispatch from Cairo received late today says that the Persia turned turtle after it was torpedoed. Only twelve of the first cabin passengers were saved.

Robert N. McNeely, the American who was proceeding to his post as United States consul at Aden, was given up for lost today when a dispatch from Alexandria said that he was still on board the Persia after the ship had been launched. A place had been found for him in the fifth boat, the dispatch added, but he had refused to take it, a woman with two little children replacing him in the boat.

Baron Montagu of Beaulieu, who held the rank of colonel in the British army, was placed among the dead in a list compiled here today from the transportation dispatches thus received. Both Baron Montagu and Mr. McNeely were seen by some of the survivors struggling in the water after the Persia took its final plunge.

CAUSED TERRIBLE HAVOC.

Colonel Clive C. Bigham, son-in-law of Lord Mersey, who presided over the court which investigated the sinking of the Lusitania, had a narrow escape from death. He was thrown into the sea by the explosion that shattered the hull of the Persia, but was picked up insensible and taken to Alexandria.

Details received here today show that the explosion which shattered the Persia and caused the vessel to sink within a few minutes created terrific havoc on the liner.

The torpedo, according to a dispatch to the Times, struck the Persia amidships and blew up its engines. The funnels, torn from the places, fell on the deck, crushing to death scores of persons. More than a score were thrown into the water by the force of the blasts and only a few of those were picked up later.

The damage caused by the explosion accounts for the fact that so few of the Persia's boats were launched. It was at first reported that there had been a panic on the liner, and this had added to the loss of life, but the latest dispatches indicate that the crew maintained perfect discipline at all times.

Persia Troop Ship, Berlin Contention

By International News Service.

Berlin, Jan. 3.—Officials of the German admiralty declared today that the liner Persia on every voyage from England had carried British soldiers and supplies for the British army to Egypt, that it was under the direction of the British admiralty and that it carried guns for defence.

Deep regret was expressed over the fact that at least one American is believed to have been lost when the Persia was sunk. No details of the liner's destruction have been received here.

Comment on possibilities of complications with the United States is withheld pending receipt of official confirmation of reports that the vessel was sunk by a submarine.

The keynote of the inaugural address of Mayor Flood was economy in city departments and boosting Taunton.

APPOINTMENTS BY BROCKTON MAYOR

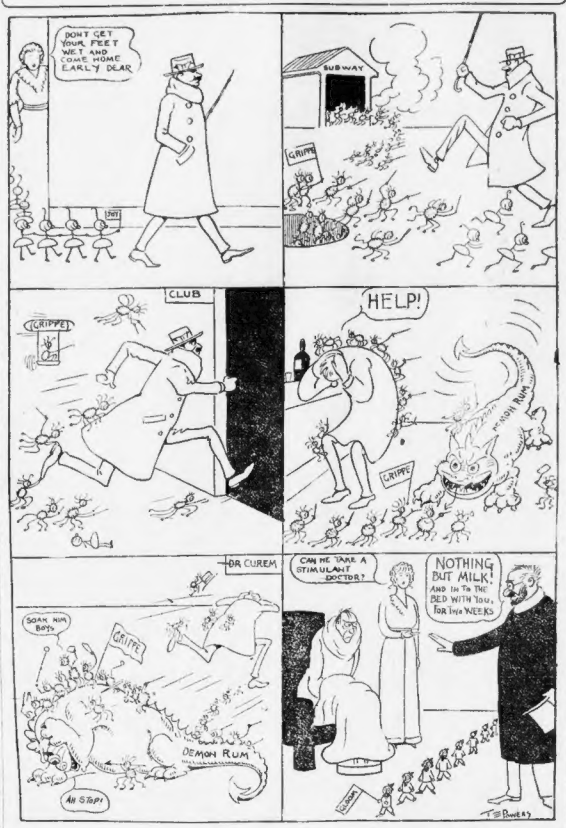
THE INVADING ARMY



CHARGES MAYOR VIOLATES A PENAL RULE

John H. Forget, one of the employes ousted from the Deer Island House of Correction last week, made the charge today that the new appointments at the island have been made by Mayor Curley and that this is in violation of a rule adopted last year by the Penal Institutions Department.

Forget further claims that the original charges of himself and the other men ousted, to the effect that the dismissals were purely to "make room for Curley lieutenants," have been "fully proved."

One of the new rules and regulations adopted last July by Commissioner of Penal Institutions David Shaw requires that the appointments must be made by the sheriff of the jail, according to Forget, and not by the mayor.

"The master shall appoint all subordinate officers, except those of an ordinary custodian, engineer and engineer's assistant, who shall be responsible and at once report the same to the Penal Institutions Department."

SAYS RULE VIOLATED.

"The Commissioner in his rule declares that Master Brett shall have the appointing of all subordinates," said Forget today. "But instead of the Master's having made these latest appointments, the Mayor made them, and reported them to the Commissioner, last Thursday at 4:30 p. m.

"And it was told that there were no less than twenty appointments in the Mayor's office which were to be sent to Commissioner Shaw.

"Now what the public has a right to know is this:

"Who is the appointing power—the Mayor, the Commissioner of the Master—Curley, Shaw or Brett?

"Why is this rule violated? Does it not prove the original charge that we were not out of our positions simply to make room for Curley lieutenants?

"Commissioner Shaw has told the newspapers that not he, but the Master, has the appointing power. How about those twenty appointments on the Mayor's desk at 4:30 p. m. last Thursday?

"The original charge we made is fully borne out.

"Why does not Shaw come out with his 'reasons' for dismissing us?

"When he talked with the reporters last week, Shaw said there would be no more dismissals, but when the final list appeared, why was it that we found two additional names there—mine?

"We also read that there were some reinstatements. Why were these made? Did he find out that his 'reasons' in these cases were groundless?

DENIES LIQUOR CHARGE.

"The Commissioner has made a most indirect insinuation in his statement that anybody who carried liquor to the island would be fired. He dares not make an open charge to that effect, for he knows I cannot prove it. For myself, I will call on the newspapers to subscribe now or the masters or deputy masters who have been in charge of the prisons during the twenty-four hours I worked there as to my character and ability. Here are some men to whom they can question: James H. Gallivan, D. Perkins, Joseph Hoffman, James H. Cronin and Wilfred Landry, deputy warden of the Male prison.

"I have never carried any liquor to the island or partaken of any there.

"This insinuation is on a par with other things the commissioner has said."

LOAN ORDER VETO AT PITTSFIELD

Pittsfield, Jan. 3.—Just before Mayor George W. Faulkner went to the second annual outing for bankers in the city clerk his veto of a bond order for $74,000 for the purchase of land from George A. Grondin, county commissioner, for a municipal golf course. The veto of the order at the final meeting of the old city government brought a storm of protest from many quarters. The Board had previously intimated he would sign the order.

Pittsfield's twenty-fifth anniversary as a city was celebrated today in connection with the inaugural, Governor Eugene N. Foss delivering an address by the city Mayor, Charles E. Hibbard, who succeeds the first city mayor elected twenty-five years ago to be abolished.

Blame Uncovered Ankles for Spread of Pneumonia

New York, Jan. 3.

"COVER up each ankle, please. If you don't you'll catch disease."

This paraphrase of the warning of the Board of Health would seem to be needed with the present prevalence of pneumonia.

The fashions for women, with necks wrapped up and ankles exposed, are blamed by physicians for the outbreak.

Women keep their necks wrapped up in furs, even in warm rooms, it is asserted, then go out into the cold air, exposing their lungs to contrasts of temperature, while the ankles, which are the one part of the body most sensitive to cold, are left without protection.

"Women catch cold by their criminal carelessness and willful indifference to the simple rules of hygiene," states one physician, "when they come home to give it to their men folks. In the spread of grip and pneumonia they are aided and abetted by the invalid male who insist on smoking all over in public places, scattering germs far and wide."

7 MORE VICTIMS CLAIMED BY PNEUMONIA

Seven persons have died in Boston during the past twenty-four hours from pneumonia, according to reports made to the Board of Health.

The present epidemic of pneumonia and grippe is one of the worst that ever visited this city.

It is not alone the poor people that are afflicted. Others who have ample means of protecting themselves against the elements and people whose education should have illustrated to them how essential it is for them to look out for themselves are included among the victims.

Many cases of pneumonia and grippe are attributed to carelessness, the public failing to take proper heed of the warnings given. While the symptoms of the grippe have been outlined repeatedly, the authorities say, and the public has been told what to do when the symptoms become apparent, in many instances sufferers delay giving themselves proper attention until the germs have worked into their systems.

Fifteen years ago there was an epidemic of grippe and pneumonia, but it arrived later in the year, coming toward the last of January.

HOTEL GUEST FOUND WITH THROAT CUT

The body of a man who registered as George Anderson, thirty-five years old, of Albany, N. Y., was found dead in the courtyard at the Revere House at noon today. The man's throat had been cut, and the police made an investigation to determine whether he had inflicted the wound and jumped from his room on the third floor or had been attacked and his body thrown from the window.

The police incline to the suicide theory.

WATCH SORE THROATS

because swollen glands or inflamed membranes often affect other tissues and thus trouble easily follow.

To correct throat troubles the pure cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is speedily converted into germ-resisting tissue; its glycerine is curative and healing, while this wholesome emulsion promptly upbuilds the forces to resist tubercular germs and avert the weakening influence which usually follows.

If any member of your family has a tender throat, get Scott's Emulsion to-day. Physicians prescribe it to avert throat troubles, overcome bronchial disorders and strengthen the lungs. No alcohol or harmful drugs. Always insist on Scott's.

SOON FOLLOWS DEVOTED WIFE IN DEATH

George H. Watson of No. 31 Melville avenue, Dorchester, died early today, a victim of pneumonia, just sixty-three hours after the death of his wife, Mrs. Annie J. Watson, without knowing that his life-long companion had preceded him.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson were married in 1870. They were an intensely devoted couple. Neither had ever been away from home for an entire twenty-four hours. They went to Rome Chesterfield after a visit to friends, both feeling ill. Dr. Mary Nute was called. When she arrived she found husband and wife both in the grip of pneumonia.

They were immediately put to bed, in separate rooms. So attached were they that the doctor was afraid that if they were together, any change for the worse in one would result in injury to the other. Especially was this so because Mrs. Watson had always evinced her fear that she would die first and leave her husband alone. This fear became one of the influences that the doctors and nurses had to guard most against.

DEATH NEWS KEPT SECRET.

The condition of both grew serious. Dr. Harry Goodall was also called in, and a staff of nurses was installed. Husband and wife were each concerned to know how the other progressed. And each was told that the other was rallying and would recover.

Thursday noon Mrs. Watson died. The news was kept from Mr. Watson. Sunday Mrs. Watson was buried, still with out the knowledge of her husband. The Rev. Dr. Pierce of the Second Congregational church read the funeral service in a whisper. Not a loud word or the sound of footsteps or the rolling of carriage wheels that might have let Mr. Watson know was permitted to reach him.

But as the body of his wife was being carried from the house, in spite of the fact that he had just inquired for her and had been told she was recovering, Mr. Watson's pulse failed, his temperature rose and he sank into the delirium that resulted in his death early today.

SONS AT BEDSIDE.

With them during their last sickness were three of their sons, Dr. Charles Edwin Watson, Fred L. Watson and Arthur Watson. Another son, Elbridge Watson, in the mica business in his father's home in Medford, Indiana, was called to him reported his collapse.

Mrs. Watson's body was placed in a vault at the Cedar Grove Cemetery, Thursday. Mr. Watson will be buried. There will be a double interment, and the week's separation, the first since their marriage, ended.

Clubwomen Open Campaign for Dress Reform

New York, Jan. 3.—A women's dress reform campaign has been started by Miss Helen Louise Johnson and the Household Economic Department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, of which she is chairman.

"The average man can dress for less money than the average woman, and at the same time have the appearance of being better dressed," declares Miss Johnson.

"The reason is that styles in men's dress change less than women, show less decided idiosyncrasies, and the manufacturer gives the man better goods for his money than he does women.

"All this is the fault of the women," Miss Johnson contends. "Because women accept what the manufacturer gives them.

"Comparatively few years ago," she adds, "we bought good tailored suits for street wear. They were suitable, sensible and becoming. Men did not turn around to look at us; we were normally dressed.

"Once we trailed our skirts through the streets because it was the thing to do. Now we wear them short enough for Alpine climbing. Styles for women's garments are so shortlived there is a risk for the manufacturer in making up the goods, so the price is put up to cover the risk.

"This is not only a serious thing for our individual purses, but it is bad for the workers in the women's garment trades. We hope the time has at last come when we may obtain real beauty of clothes. We believe that a change for the better is necessary for the welfare of the country."

HARRIS QUITS AS HAVERHILL ALDERMAN

Haverhill, Jan. 3.—James W. Harris, whose citizenship was recently questioned, today resigned from the Board of Aldermen. Alderman Harris, who has been a member of the board for seven years, read his resignation when the new city government was inaugurated this morning, and before he was sworn in.

He said that, owing to the fact that his qualifications as a citizen had been questioned, on the advice of his counsel, Ryan & Pingree, he had decided to resign.

Harris' action is construed as a tacit admission of the fact that he is not a citizen, and as a result it is believed that Michael J. Kelleher will claim that he should have been a member of the board last year.

In last year's election, in the contest for two positions on the Board of Aldermen, Harris led with 4,600 votes, Albert E. Stickney was second with 2,200, and Kelleher third with 2,854 votes. It is now believed that Kelleher will claim that Harris was elected illegally, and that he, Kelleher, should have been given the seat.

Last week Judge Ryan of counsel for Harris stated that he had written to Walsh for his citizenship papers, but these have never turned up.

PAGES IN COLOR

Through color photography and a special process of reproduction Harper's Bazar has succeeded in reproducing the actual appearance of fashions and of furniture. Not merely the flat colors of the fabric are shown, but its effect when in use—with all the modulations of light and shadows—is brilliantly reproduced.

In the January issue you will find the first three of these lovely pages. We have chosen three new designs by Lady Duff Gordon (Lucile), posed on her celebrated model, Hebe; also three Paris designs by the great artist, Erté, and a water-color painting of the galleried hall in the residence of Mr. W. M. Pickens, near Philadelphia.

Costly as this process is, we have adopted it to make Harper's Bazar not only the most interesting, but the most beautiful of all magazines. Look for the first three pages in color in the January Number of

INAUGURATIONS IN MANY BAY STATE CITIES

Several cities in Massachusetts today inaugurated Mayors and city governments.

Mayor Wendell D. Rockwood of Cambridge, with the fifteen members of the new City Council and the new School Committee, took office at exercises which began at 10 o'clock this morning. City Clerk Braedon administered the oath of office.

Exercises were held in Lynn, where George A. Cornet and Thomas Campbell, 2d, took office as commissioners of public property and Mayor George H. Newhall delivered an inaugural address. Judge Henry T. Lummus administered the oaths of office.

In Malden and Melrose the exercises are set for this evening. Charles H. Adams takes the office of Mayor of Melrose, and Charles M. Blodgett as Mayor of Malden. Mayor Blakely of Malden, who retires from office, will speak.

In Quincy, Gustave B. Bates succeeds Chester L. Campbell as Mayor, and Joseph L. Whiton is expected to be elected president of the City Council.

Hathaway Again at New Bedford

New Bedford, Jan. 3—Mayor Edward Hathaway was inaugurated for his second term at 10 o'clock today in the High School building. Prayer was offered by Rev. William B. Geoghegan and the oath of office was administered by Judge Milliken of the Third District Court.

Prior to the inaugural exercises the City Council organized temporarily in the Municipal building. The two branches then voted to adjourn to the High School building.

Mayor Hathaway and Chief of Police Allen headed a procession which marched to the High School. Deputy Chief of Police Parker accompanied the Common Council.

After the inaugural exercises the city government went back to the Municipal building, where the branches organized permanently. Alderman Bentley was elected president of the Board of Aldermen, and Dr. Hollihan president of the Common Council. The mayor's minor appointments were then confirmed.

Mayor of Lowell for Revaluation

Lowell, Jan. 3—Mayor James E. O'Donnell today advocated in an unusually brief inaugural address a move to revalue Lowell property for the purpose of not only adding to the city's revenue, but also to adjust inequalities of assessment.

In connection with a proposed new high school, costing $700,000, he asked for an expression of sentiment from citizens and also suggested the appointment of a commission of five to supervise the construction. Underground wiring for lighting was urged.

Misuse of city-owned automobiles was referred to and the mayor recommended that all city autos be conspicuously lettered as to ownership. Others taking office today were James E. Donnelly and Charles J. Morse, elected as commissioners.

Bates of Quincy for Lower Taxes

Mayor Gustave B. Bates of Quincy declared today in his inaugural address that he would uncover $10,000,000 in taxable property in that city which had never been taxed before.

He asserted that by so doing he could guarantee a tax rate of $15 for the coming year, in place of the present $22.

Mayor Bates scored tax dodgers, and also stated that the water department needs readjustment, the present water rates being excessive.

He said that he would also petition the Legislature to vacate the decree plan which provides for the elimination of grade crossings, as he believes in depressed rather than elevated crossings.

The oath of office was administered in the City Council Chamber by City Clerk Emery L. Crane at noon, and the devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. Edward Sorrows.

Following the delivery of the inaugural address the City Council went into session and re-elected the old officers, Joseph L. Whiten was elected president; George F. Mitchell, clerk of Council; Harry W. Terril, city messenger, for the ensuing year, and Henry O. Fairbanks city auditor.

Johnson of Woburn for Fewer Police

The inauguration of Mayor Harold O. Johnson of Woburn, who is serving his second term, took place in Lyceum Hall in that city at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Mayor Johnson is the son of Edward F. Johnson, the first Mayor of Woburn, who is at present a Judge of the Fourth District Court.

The oath of office was administered by City Clerk J. Fred Mansell. The devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Henry B. Williams of the First Baptist Church.

Mayor Johnson, who is a Republican, last year carried out almost every recommendation he made in his inaugural address. Today he recommended further reduction in the police force, and the creation of the office of sergeant of police, the holder of which would do night duty.

He declared he would ask for legislation giving the police power to search those suspected of carrying liquor on their persons for the purpose of disposing of it illegally. He also advocated the abolition of Clean-Up Week, the motor equipment of a hook and ladder, and an automobile for the chief of the fire department.

GLOUCESTER IS SHOCKED BY PRAYER

Gloucester, Jan. 3—In delivering the prayer at the inaugural exercises at City Hall today, Rev. Levi M. Powers startled an audience of 1,500 men and women by solemnly declaring: "We wish, O God, that these people might be blessed, but perhaps we are asking too much. It may be that the only thing you can do is to let them go to hell, where they belong."

This startling climax to a prayer replete with sensational phrases is the talk of the city.

The prayer of Rev. Mr. Powers follows:

Almighty Father, the love of our city calls us here this morning. We begin today a new year of municipal life. We know it is useless to ask this blessing unless we want it and are anxious for it. No matter how much you may wish to bless this city you cannot do it unless the citizens are willing and anxious to be blest.

We PRAY, therefore, first of all, for the voters of this city, there are some too lazy to vote but not too lazy to grumble. Help them.

WE PRAY for the taxpayers who want good streets, good schools, good fire and police protection and good health officers, but who wish other people to pay for their cost.

WE PRAY for the business men whose votes are already determined by the expectancy of special favors for themselves. Bless them if you can.

WE PRAY for those who believe that all laws should be enforced except the laws which they do not like or which, if enforced, would trouble them.

WE PRAY for the comfortable who do not care about anything so long as they are left at ease.

WE PRAY for the politicians who weigh votes and who count their friends and let their bad candidates go unopposed.

WE PRAY for those who vote for the saloons simply because they have property that rents for more for that than for any other purpose.

WE PRAY for men so mean they are not willing to give their natives the equal privileges they have themselves.

WE PRAY for ministers who are not in this city if do not believe they are; who say what is pleasant to hear rather than what is true.

WE PRAY for all connected with newspapers who meekly advocate civic righteousness and secretly promote crooked policies.

WE PRAY for the lawyers to whom law means only a livelihood, and for drinking those who wish to evade the law to do so safely and so enable themselves and others to get something for nothing.

WE WISH, O God, that all these people might be blessed, but perhaps we are asking too much, for we know that even you cannot bless them unless they mend their ways. It may be that the only thing you can do is to let them go to hell where they belong; you know best.

We are here this morning for the special purpose of inducting five men into office, where for a year it will be their duty to think and work for the common good. They are to think and plan not for any one class, but for all of us; not for the best citizens only, but for all of the citizens; not for those who pay the rates merely, but for those who earn the money to pay the taxes. We, the people, have chosen these men to represent us. Help them, O God, to plan and act honestly, bravely and efficiently for the good of all. Amen."

GLOUCESTER IS SHOCKED by Mayor Rockwood.

"Financial recklessness and extravagance have marked previous administrations," said Wendell P. Rockwood, the newly-elected Mayor of Cambridge, in assuming office today.

After promising office his first official act was to remove Henry J. Cunningham, commissioner of public safety.

Mayor Rockwood departed from the time-honored custom of delivering an inaugural message. Instead, he said, he intends to send messages to the City Council from time to time. Mayor Rockwood said:

"I know it is customary to deliver an inaugural when a Mayor assumes office, but there are so many important matters to be discussed that I have decided to take them up one at a time and send a message to the Council from time to time.

"There has been financial recklessness and extravagance which has caused widespread dissatisfaction in the city. We must retrench until our natural growth overtakes these expenditures. We must economize and co-operate. Cambridge is the fifth city in the State in population and the ninth in manufacturing importance, doing a business of $60,000,000 a year with 18,000 employes. We must conserve and develop these resources."

Besides the Mayor, the City Council and other officials elected under Plan B, were inducted into office before a large number of prominent persons, including many women.

Mayor Rockwood commented privately on the fact that no official greeting was given him by Harvard College.

The Council held its first meeting and elected as president Edward J. Dunphy. Owing to the complete change in the methods of city government made by the adoption of Plan B and a new city charter, the Council met without rules other than those supplied from Cushing's manual. After electing a president its first act was to appoint a committee to draw up a set of rules.

The removal of Henry J. Cunningham was laid on the table until the next meeting, as some claim the Mayor cannot lawfully remove him at this time.

A hearing on the motion of Mrs. Nan Corrigan Bates for a new trial of her divorce suit against Frank M. Bates, the Attleboro millionaire, was scheduled to be given by Judge Sanderson in Boston today.

Mrs. Bates, who before her marriage was a newsstand girl in a New York hotel, asked for a divorce on the grounds of intoxication, the use of drugs and cruelty. Judge Sanderson denied her suit, but agreed to hear evidence for a new trial. Warren A. Swift of Taunton, counsel for Frank M. Bates, has filed a motion for specifications.

Mrs. Bates, through her counsel, John B. Casey, declares that she has evidence which will result in securing a new trial and that she will fight until she obtains a legal separation from her husband.

Nan Corrigan was employed on the newsstand of the Hotel Vanderbilt in New York city, when she was wooed and won by Frank Merion Bates, a rich young jeweler of Attleboro.

They were married on June 4, 1912, three months after Bates first saw the young woman. The couple lived together nearly two years at the Bates home in Attleboro and then in Providence.

Mrs. Bates then brought suit for divorce. The case was heard by Judge Sanderson at the New Bedford session of the Bristol Superior Court. Mr. Bates contested his young wife's libel and she lost her suit. During the trial Mrs. Bates declared that she did not marry her husband for his money.

When the divorce was denied Mrs. Bates went back to New York to work and Attorney Casey filed a motion on her behalf for a new trial.

BRYAN AND FORD PLAN FIGHT

By International News Service

New York, Jan 3.—Henry Ford announced today that he and William Jennings Bryan will unite in fighting the national preparedness issue in the United States.

"Mr. Bryan and myself discussed the issue last night and while we did not outline any definite program of action we are in accord upon the subject," said Mr. Ford. "I am going to do everything in my power to fight preparedness. As yet I do not know just how I will go about it, for all my life I have been doing things upon the spur of the moment and I never make a plan except one subject to change any minute.

"Preparedness is a danger which must be combatted in this country and I stand ready to do my share."

Mr. Ford's plans for the afternoon included a visit to the automobile show and departure for Detroit at 8 o'clock.

ALL WANT TO QUIT.

Getting back to the war in Europe, Mr. Ford said:

"Every belligerent soul wants to quit. The rulers want to quit, too, but they can't. They don't know how."

Mr. Ford was asked if he came back to get official backing for his party, and this roused him.

"No, I did not," he declared. "The officials are the weakest of the lot. They are all afraid of losing their jobs. They will do nothing. I want no official backing for anything I do."

"I regard that as a great victory," declared Mr. Ford when he learned that the German government had granted permission to the Ford peace party to cross the northwestern corner of the German empire on their way to The Hague.

Mr. Ford declared that if nothing else had been accomplished beyond the securing of this concession from the German government, he would regard his time and efforts as well spent.

WORK WILL GO ON.

Mr. Ford denied that the peace party will disband.

"It is true that some of the members of the party will sail for home on January 12, but the party will not disband," declared the peace apostle. "The duly accredited peace delegates in our party will remain in Europe, continuing their efforts for peace."

Immediately upon his arrival from Norway, Mr. Ford sent for Mr. Bryan. The latter made a hurried trip from Washington to meet the Detroit philanthropist. They did not disclose the nature of their plans, but following their conference Mr. Bryan said:

"Mr. Ford heard a report in midocean that I was going to The Hague tomorrow. He was anxious to talk with me before my departure, if it was true that I was going. But it is not true that I am going tomorrow. It is not certain if I am going at all. But at all events I shall not go immediately."

Earlier Mr. Ford had said: "I have just begun to fight for peace. I have learned much during my trip abroad and I am willing to make any sacrifices of time or fortune that will enable me to do what is possible to achieve the peace that we all desire.

"I feel that these men, who are falling at the rate of 20,000 a day on the European battlefields, played a large part in enabling me to accumulate the money I have got together and I am merely a custodian of that money now to do what good I can with it. In time appreciation and any attempt at self-glorification or advertisement, I am ready to devote all of that money toward putting an end to the strife.

"I have several new plans and it is these plans that I discussed with Mr. Bryan."

Mr. Ford had cause for rejoicing today when informed that Germany had granted permission for his peace pilgrims to proceed to Holland across German territory. They will travel by special train which will make no stop between Danish and Dutch borders.

By travelling on land the delegates will avoid the danger of proceeding through the mine fields that lie in the North Sea.

The peace argonauts will leave Copenhagen on their special train Friday, according to the plans made by the leaders.

CONDITIONS OF PRIVILEGE

In granting permission for the peace expedition to travel through its territory the German government laid down these conditions:

1—No written, printed or typewritten paper shall be carried in the baggage of the members. Any violation of this condition by concealing any documents will result in immediate arrest.

2—No cameras, opera glasses or picture post cards shall be carried by any of the travelers.

3—Gold coins in the possession of the travelers shall be confiscated and replaced by German bills.

4—Each member of the expedition must present a passport in person at the German consulate in Copenhagen.

The members were called together today at Copenhagen and warned by the present leaders of the expedition that all the German conditions must be carefully observed. They were told that failure to comply with the conditions would result in every offending member being abandoned to the mercies of the German authorities.

GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS

"Teutons Will Require Peace Before October"

By Lord Middleton

British Secretary for War.

London, Jan. 3.

THE German Emperor has promised his subjects peace since last October.

Both they and the Germans' two necessitous allies will require peace before next October.

RUSSIANS START BIG DRIVE IN BUKOWINA

London, Jan. 3.—The capture of the heights commanding Czernowitch, capital of Bukowina, is claimed by the Russians, who also announce that the population of the city is ready to evacuate.

Teutonic official statements, however, contest these claims. Hand to hand fighting by great masses of troops continues, and on the Rumanian frontier is reported by Petrograd.

In one engagement six Russian regiments were engaged in a succession of attacks near Toporanta. Vienna claims that these were repulsed. The Austrians claim that during the last week they have taken 3,000 prisoners.

The Russian campaign in Bessarabia and Eastern Galicia is the one great military activity of the present stage of the war. The Russians report that they are attacking on a front of about 300 miles. It is estimated that fully 2,000,000 men are engaged, and that forces are about evenly divided.

The Russians claim to be excellently equipped, and are spending their new stores of ammunition freely. It is believed that the new Russian offensive will have an important influence on Rumanian action in the Balkans.

London observers, speculating on the meaning of the Bessarabia move, hail it as one of the most ambitious since the beginning of hostilities, and predict that it will prove a colossal attempt to break the backbone of the Germanic allies' whole line across the Balkans. Thus one critic says:

So long as Russia keeps up her present activity just north of the Roumanian border, the attitude of Rumania will continue to grow in importance.

KREISLER'S SECOND CONCERT ENJOYED

Fritz Kreisler gave his second concert of the season before a large and enthusiastic audience in Symphony Hall, Carl Lamson was the accompanist. The program was as follows: Bach, Suite, E minor; Schumann, Fantasy, C major, op. 131; Romance, A major; Vieuxtemps, Concerto No. 2, F sharp minor; Weber, Larghetto; Schubert, Movement Musical; Monari, Rondo, G major; Godowsky, Valse Macabre, "Wienerisch"; Cartier, La Chasse; Kreisler, Berceuse Romantique; Dvbrsk-Kreisler, Slavonic Fantasy.

Vieuxtemps concerto was a feature and was played with Mr. Kreisler's familiar and melting quality of tone, his poetic phrasing, polished execution, fire and brilliance in this, and in the shorter pieces. Mr. Kreisler was at his best. Schubert's Movement Musical, which aroused pleasurable memories of Miss Plaskovitzka and her joyous sister nymphs. Cartier's La Chasse and the violinist's own exquisite Berceuse were repeated. Godowsky's Valse Macabre has character, individuality and distinction, but his "Wienerisch," written in gayer mood, will no doubt be more popular.

Mr. Kreisler displayed his customary graciousness in adding to the program, which will be again on Sunday afternoon, January 30.

They are survived by three sons and a daughter.

GREEK CRISIS OVER SEIZURE OF CONSULS

By International News Service.

Athens, Jan. 3.—Owing to the continued arrest of German, Austrian, Bulgarian and Turkish subjects, the situation in Greek Macedonia is hourly becoming more serious.

The cabinet held a meeting today, when the situation was canvassed. Premier Skouloudis takes the stand that the arrest of foreigners, while enjoying the protection of the Greek flag, constitutes a violation of international law, and a new protest may be made to the Allies.

The Greek premier declared that he hoped the protest of the Greek government would result in the liberation of the Teutonic, Bulgarian and Turkish consular officials at Salonica, where they were seized upon orders from General Sarrail, French commander, and placed on board a warship.

A Salonica dispatch by way of Rome says, however, that the Allied commanders at Salonica have rejected the Greek government's demand that they surrender the consulates seized, and have also refused to give up the arrested consuls.

The Bulgarian minister to Greece has served notice that stern reprisals would be made by his country if the Bulgarian consul, who was ill when arrested, dies as the result of the treatment accorded him.

"If the Bulgarian consul dies as a result of his arrest, Bulgaria will retaliate on all the allied prisoners she has taken and an attack will be made against the Anglo-French forces at Salonica immediately," said King Ferdinand's envoy.

The newspaper Nea Hellas says that thirty transports of allied troops have arrived in the Gulf of Orphanos, Greece, and that debarkation has begun.

It is said today that martial law will be declared on January 15 and that the Chamber of Deputies has been summoned to meet on the 17th to ratify the proclamation thereof.

SALEM BACK TO OLD GOVERNMENT

Salem went back to Mayor and Council form of city government today after three years of commission form. Mayor Henry P. Benson, five aldermen-at-large and six ward aldermen, all non-partisan, were inaugurated in the Council chamber at 10 o'clock.

Last November the Salem voters voted, after a campaign against high tax valuations, for a city charter known as Plan B, with election under the new charter held a fortnight ago.

Mayor Benson's inaugural urged that taxable property be revalued on the basis of its market worth.

He recommended consolidation of several city departments into a public works department under the city engineer.

He urged co-operation in the police department and recommended that the police and fire chiefs have the power, now held by the Mayor, of appointing their own department officials.

M'DONALD SWORN IN AT BEVERLY

Beverly, Jan. 3.—Mayor Herman E. McDonald was again sworn into office for the last year of his second term as Mayor of this city. The exercises were short and after the Mayor delivered his address he announced several changes he was about to make in the city payroll.

Dr. Charles H. Phillips was appointed to the Board of Health to fill the place of George L. Voss. Dr. C. H. Hayes was re-elected city physician, Charles A. Dow was re-elected to the board of assessors.

To Decide Tie Election.

Because of a tie in the vote between F. C. Brady and L. H. Chadwick, a special election will be held at the meeting of Housesmiths' and Bridgemen's Union, Local 7, in Wells Memorial Building tonight, to choose a business agent.

PLAN EMBARGO ON MUNITION EXPORTS

By WILLIS J. ABBOT,

Editorial Correspondent of the American.

Washington, Jan. 3.—A lobby of the first-class and liberal old style, the sort of a lobby that used to make it possible for John Chamberlain to run a restaurant of unlimited capacity in a way that nowadays supports no eating place much above the most ordinary standard, is expected in Washington this month. For the bigger get-rich-quick business of the day—the munitions business—is going to be attacked from every strategic point, and by several distinct forces in Congress.

Claiming control of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, has announced that he will begin at once public hearings on the proposition to place an embargo on the shipment of arms and other munitions of war to belligerent Europe.

Representative Rainey, the ranking member of the Ways and Means Committee, tells me that he believes every member of that committee to be in favor of the Shackleford bill to impose a tax of 10 per cent of 20 per cent, upon arms and munitions of war manufactured for foreign governments. The bill in its present form is incomplete.

It fails to define accurately the subjects of taxation, and leaves free from tax innumerable objects of munitions manufacture now employed for military purposes only in Europe. But it enunciates the principle universally approved, and one of the first tasks to be undertaken by the Ways and Means Committee will be to put it in proper form for enactment.

MUNITIONS TAX FAVORED.

The proposition to compel the makers of munitions to contribute toward the new expense of "preparedness" has more general support than that for an embargo. In fact, the progressional sentiment is today virtually a unit for it. Retiring members from the West and South report their constituents are insistent upon a device of this sort to bring public revenue. The newspaper articles of millionaires in a week from soaring war stocks, the magazine articles on the boom times in Bridgeport, or the sudden creation of such towns as that about the principal plant of the Du Pont Powder Company, have stimulated the imagination and envy of hundreds of thousands who have no share on this sudden prosperity. The farmer asks:

"Why should I pay a tax on the horse-power of my automobile or on the gasoline that drives it while those fellows who make guns or shells or powder are rolling up millions without any added burden of taxation?"

The small business man cannot see why the minimum of the income tax should be dropped to take him into vexatious stamp taxes levied for his annoyance when nothing is done to take for public uses any share of the profits of the munitions makers.

There is also a certain moral fervor back of the effort to tax the war order factories. Many people look on the business with aversion—even horror. They would prefer to see it stamped out altogether, but, failing this, would make it pay heavily now and meeting the cost of any extension of our naval and military establishment. They, so many have pleaded by the pacifists in Congress and out, that the cry for preparedness is stirred by the purveyors of arms and munitions, has undoubtedly impressed a very considerable number of voters, who now demand that the cost of that policy fall in large part upon those they hold responsible for it.

An excise tax upon munitions is also demanded by those who think it a way of raising revenue without taking out of pockets of foreign governments must have these supplies," they say. "All our manufacturers need do is to add the tax to their estimates. The foreigners must pay the tax." Nevertheless the present plan is to impose the tax upon goods already in process of manufacture, and for which contracts have already been completed.

CONSCRIPTION TO INCLUDE IRELAND

London, Jan. 3.—According to an announcement made by the press association, Ireland is not to be excepted from the new compulsory recruiting bill.

It is still doubtful whether there will be a great battle in the House of Commons over conscription. The anti-conscriptionists claim to have 200 members determined to fight to the last ditch against what they denounce as the surrender of liberal principles but other threats of last ditch fights have been uttered during the war, notably by the opponents of the drinking restrictions and having come to nothing, the rebelling elements consenting when the critical hour came to sacrifice their obligations to the nation's welfare.

REPORT GERMAN SUCCESSES IN ARTOIS

By International News Service.

Berlin, Jan. 3.—The German War Office today announced a local success in the Arras district on the western front. It stated that the Russians were continuing their activity on the Riga front without success. The following report from the general staff was issued:

"Western theatre of war: A large mine was exploded yesterday by us with success effects in the road between La Bassee and Belloano. The enemy's fighting and reserve trenches were buried. Bloody soldiers who survived were taken under the efficient fire of the German rifles and guns as they attempted to flee.

"In combination with the mining operations there was a general attack by fire on a broad front. This surprised the occupants of the enemy's trenches. Part of them fled hurriedly.

"On New Year's Day the French shelled Lutterbach, in Alsace, killing a girl and wounding a woman and three children just leaving church.

"Eastern theatre of war: The Russians yesterday continued without success their enterprises with patrols and small detachments."

One report in Berlin, according to the travelers, is that a cancerous growth has attacked the Kaiser's lips, making necessary an operation that will scar him for life.

Flirts Keep Out, This Young Man Is in Earnest

Young women, who are "refined church members and not flirts," are asked to correspond with a young man in Idaho Falls, Idaho, from whom a letter was received by Postmaster Murray today. The letter, dated December 27, reads:

"Kind Sir: I am writing you asking if you know of any nice young ladies that would correspond with a refined but very lonesome young man of twenty-six—a gentleman. I don't care to hear from anyone, only those that are ladies and not flirts. Would prefer to hear from those who are members of some church. I am a church member myself, belonging to the M. E. Church. Any letters will be kindly answered."

The communication is signed "Leonard Bennett, Idaho Falls, Idaho, care of Eleanore Hotel."

The postmaster replied: "I have your letter of December 27, and in reply will state that I am not aware at present of any ladies who would correspond with you. However, I have given your letter to the press of this city, and through its medium, the desired results may be obtained."

The factory is a wooden, two and three-story structure, about one hundred by a hundred and fifty feet.

American Asked to Help Find Missing Mother

T. H. Oram of No. 1,586 Third avenue, New York, has written, asking the AMERICAN to help in locating his mother, Mrs. Josephine Kenney, who disappeared from her home at No. 24 Bennett street, Boston, nine weeks ago.

"When last seen," Mr. Oram writes, "she wore a short, dark brown fur coat and brown skirt and a turban shaped hat trimmed with pheasant wings. She weighed about 115 pounds, was about five feet, four inches tall, with brown eyes and dark brown hair, sprinkled with gray. She is about forty-eight years old."

Mr. Oram says he wrote to the superintendent of the Boston police on December 15, and received no answer or acknowledgement of his letter. Mrs. E. O'Rourke was the landlady at No. 24 Bennett street when Mrs. Kenney disappeared.

SWIG CASE TO BE HEARD JANUARY 11

The election charges against Simon Swig, Representative from Ward 21, are to be heard in the Suffolk Superior Court, January 11, and Chief Justice Aiken has appointed Judges Jenney, McLaughlin and Fox to hear this and other election cases.

The three judges will hear first the case of Lawrence Quigley against Joseph L. Levenson of Chelsea, recently elected member of the Chelsea School Committee. This case grows out of the election, at which it is claimed Quigley was the winner on the first count, but on the recount, Levenson was declared elected.

Mr. Swig, a petition filed in the court on Saturday, is accused of having expended more than $100 in obtaining his election.

SUBMARINE IS PUT TO ROUT BY LINER

London, Jan. 3.—In the light of the destruction of the liner Persia, news arrived today which contains an interesting description of the encounter that the Liberian liner City of Marseilles had with a submarine in the Mediterranean Sea.

The city of Marseilles, which arrived at Bombay on December 8, reported that she was pursued, fired upon, without actually being hit, and finally escaped the submarine.

It was on the morning of November 27, when the City of Marseilles was off the Kerdinan coast that the submarine was sighted. It was some three and one-half miles distant on the starboard quarter.

Without any warning the submarine opened fire upon the liner. The first shot did not hit the vessel, although fragments of the shell as it burst scattered over the deck. The liner's engines were worked up to their maximum speed, and when the second shot from the submarine barely missed the liner's rudder the City of Marseilles opened fire on the submarine with a stern gun.

The submarine continued firing, but none of the shells hit the ship, although splinters of shells fell upon the bridge and on the quarter. In all, eight shots were fired by the liner, to which the submarine replied with vigor.

Soon after the liner had fired the eighth shot the submarine was seen to have a decided list to port. She disappeared shortly afterward.

During the encounter the passengers, wearing lifebelts, assembled in the saloon in case it should be necessary to abandon the ship and take to the boats. There was no sign of a panic.

HUNT LOST WALTHAM MAYOR

Eighty-three Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts, under the leadership of Hugo R. Seikel, today searched the shores of the Charles River from Watertown to Newton Upper Falls in an effort to find some trace of Mayor Thomas F. Kearns of Waltham, missing since Thursday.

They did succeed in tracing him to a scrap iron yard at No. 20 California street, where John Heald told them he had called and gone on through the back of the yard toward the wild ground that lies along the river.

But further than that they got no trace of the missing man.

Mayor Kearns would today have relinquished his office to Ellen F. Williams, his successor. Instead of taking a prominent part at the inaugural exercises, he was the object of a search in which Metropolitan, Waltham and Newton police and the Boy Scouts joined.

By a tragic coincidence, Mayor Kearns' brother-in-law, Artemus Rogers, was found dead today in his room at No. 10 Hammond street, Waltham, of heart failure. He was also his father, while his wife was living with Mayor Kearns, her brother, Allen Lincoln street. The medical examiner was called in to examine Rogers' body.

Frank Leslie of No. 318 California street, Newton, saw Mayor Kearns in Newton late Thursday, the day he disappeared.

Lewis said: "At 2 or half past 2 on Thursday afternoon I met Mayor Kearns on California street.

ASK AID OF SCOUTS.

"I knew him personally, through civic affairs.

"He was walking slowly, head hanging in a dejected manner, and with his hands in his pockets.

"I spoke to him, but he paid no attention and went on."

Superintendent John A. Gilman of the Metropolitan Park police today set a squad of men to work dragging the river from Brighton to Hemlock Gorge, Newton Upper Falls.

Charles Wingo of Main street, Waltham, told the Waltham police today that he rode to Waltham Thursday with Mayor Kearns Thursday afternoon, making the 4:47 train. They had also playing cards with the Mayor all the way to town. The police say that because of the statements of others who saw the Mayor elsewhere that day, he [illegible] Wingo's statement.

Fears for the life of the chief executive of the Watch City are entertained by his friends and relatives, as he was known to have been suffering from an extremely bad attack of the grippe since early last week, and it is thought by them that he might have taken his own life in some manner while suffering in a delirium of fever.

Mayor Kearns left his home at No. 96 Bacon street, Thursday morning, saying that he must go to his office and attend to some business that required his attention. A that time he was suffering from a severe cold and had been ordered by his family to remain indoors until he had recovered.

SEARCH IS FRUITLESS.

Sanatoriums and hospitals, both public and private, have been communicated with to no avail, and the police of all the cities and towns of Metropolitan Boston have been asked to assist in the hunt for the missing official. Friends and relatives of the missing man fear that he has met with either by his own hand in an [illegible] mental moment caused by the high fever, or from exposure to the fierce weather of the past few days.

Three distinct committees have been formed to organize a systematic search. The members of each committee have agreed to undertake a personal inquiry in every place where any clew to his whereabouts may be obtained.

One was a citizens' committee, comprising Alderman Ward and several city officials; another comprised the Waltham Lodge of Elks, of which Mayor Kearns was a member, and the third committee was recruited from the Newton Lodge of Elks, headed by Mayor Edwin O. Childs of that city.

COMPLAINED OF ILLNESS.

For several days the Mayor Kearns lived with his father, Patrick Kearns, and his sister, Mrs. Artemus Rogers, in the latter's home at No. 96 Bacon street. The last visit that he paid to his office in City Hall was on Thursday.

In the afternoon he complained that he was not feeling well. Chief Physician C. MacManama, who visited him at the Mayor's office, noticed his condition and took his temperature. It was as high as 104 degrees. Dr. MacManama told Mayor Kearns that he had all the symptoms of the grippe and advised him to go home and get into bed. Mr. Kearns took the advice of the physician and went home.

Friday and soon Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

On Thursday morning, however, against the counsel of his relatives, Mayor Kearns left home, to go to his office, intending that he would ride the river from Brighton to Hemlock Gorge, Newton Upper Falls.

Charles Wingo of Main street, Waltham, told the Waltham police today that he rode to Waltham Thursday with Mayor Kearns Thursday afternoon, making the 4:47 train. They had also playing cards with the Mayor all the way to town. The police say that because of the statements of others who saw the Mayor elsewhere that day, he [illegible] Wingo's statement.

PREPAREDNESS EXHIBITION BY WOMAN

Bay State women are teaching a new kind of "Boots Boston" at Normal Boylston street. It is not a business house, which they are demonstrating, but a "house" of common, with Boston as the street.

It is a free exhibition of war implements, a demonstration for preparedness.

One of the most lively lessons of the exhibition shows how easily a foreign foe off Boston, armed with fourteen-inch guns throwing projectiles fourteen miles, could bombard the city and its suburbs.

That's the kind of "boosting" that those women are calling to the attention of the public—free of cost.

The whole exhibition is under direction of the National Security League and the Massachusetts Branch for Women of the Special Aid Society for American Preparedness.

Every detail of modern warfare is shown, a submarine periscope, measuring more than sixteen feet in length, and weighing nearly 1,500 pounds, being one of the most interesting features.

EXHIBITION COMPREHENSIVE.

Shrapnel shells and what they do to those in the trenches are represented in a variety of ways. The Gatling gun, the machine gun, the shrapnel apparatus, the expedition pack equipment, models of modern rifles of all types, the different cartridges clips, together with the [illegible] place steel darts destined to kill when dropped from 5,000 feet, are some of the most pointed suggestions in the exhibit for national preparedness.

War posters, including those prepared by the women of England to induce men to enlist, are shown at the rear of the hall, where Dr. W. J. Mixter's collection of war treasures, picked up on battlefields of the French ambulance corps, may also be seen.

Besides other relics of modern warfare in glass cases, there are many charts showing the comparative size and exact status of the army and navy in this country in comparison with the armies of other nations.

WOMEN'S VIEW OF WAR.

Miss Elizabeth Seabury, one of the women present to explain the exhibit, said today:

"Women are interested in preparedness because the need of it is so self evident when the army and navy equipments of this country are examined. Women are interested in preparedness because they want to be sure that if, as a last resort, they send the relatives and friends of the country man to battle and lend the sinews of war, they are making a long trip or making a long stay somewhere.

"If the war-making power should attack us, they should attack us.

"Women can do their part in awakening the country to the need of preparedness.

"The exhibition does not prove war, but it does teach that our country must do in meet the attacks of other countries should we be drawn into war."

The following officers of the Massachusetts Branch of N. P., are connected with the exhibition: President, Miss Alice Bradley Mason; vice president, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer; treasurer, Mrs. Harold Murnock; secretary, Mrs. Charles Hubbard Ashton, Jr.

Fullerton Merrill of the National Security League represents that body. It will be open to the public daily except Sunday until February 1.

Peaslee Witness Ends Busy Day at Prayer Meeting

THE Peaslee murder trial has furnished a "nothing-to-do-till-tomorrow" man. He is Charles F. Carter, who worked for the murdered Howard Peaslee. Carter testified in part today:

"I got up at 5 a. m., did the chores and then called Howard Peaslee. Then I worked all day in the toy shop and did odd jobs. I did the chores again at night. On the night of the murder I did the chores, went to my room, dressed up, went to the barber's, had a shave, went to prayer meeting and returned to the house."

McCall's Address Goes to Printers; New Bills Filed

Governor-elect Samuel W. McCall today completed preparation of his inaugural message and sent it to the State printer. It is announced that the inaugural message contains about 4,500 words. The two inaugural messages of Governor Walsh each contained rising 12,000 words.

* * *

It is an open secret that Governor-elect McCall was delayed in the preparation of his inaugural by political workers, big and little, who invaded even his home at Winchester with requests for him to publicly declare for Senator John Wingate Weeks for President. This Governor McCall has refused to do.

* * *

Governor-elect McCall's inaugural address will declare for a non-partisan constitutional convention, it is assumed, because he declared for the convention in his campaign speeches, the State committee has endorsed and put the constitutional convention plank into the platform and because he has reiterated that stand since his return from his Western vacation trip. It is expected that the inaugural will also take a note for economy in State finances.

A legislative petition requiring motion-picture theatres to provide an entertainment other than films of at least ten minute duration at the close of every fifty minutes of the film will be filed with the House of Representatives today by Representative-elect Charles Chapman of Cambridge, with a penalty of $50 or six months in prison. A similar bill went down to a crushing defeat by a vote of 141 to 76 in the House of Representatives last year.

* * *

A relic of the sectarian fights of the past three legislative session found its way into the House of Representatives today in the nature of a bill for the Governor to appoint one or more trustees of all religious, charitable and educational institutions that are exempted, in whole or part, from taxation. The trustees thus appointed would be required to report annually to the State Board of Charities. In the history, the educational institutions at least have had no cause to deal with the charities. The bill was filed by Representative Horace F. Field of Mattapoisett.

* * *

Representative Field filed a second bill today, one to transfer the town of Carver to the jurisdiction of the Fourth District court of Bristol.

* * *

Condemning the present insurance laws as "unscientific, unbusinesslike and sectional," a resolve filed today by Representative Samuel Davis of Springfield provides for hearings to amend the national Constitution in order that it may exact national insurance laws. The joint committee of State regulation creates "conditions unbelievably complex, inefficient and inefficient," Mr. Davis' petition says.

* * *

Representative William H. Sullivan of Ward 12, acting in behalf of John F. Duffy of No. 17 Prescott street and other petitioners, filed a bill today for consolidation of the Second, Second Cambridge, so-called. Under the plan the tunnel would connect with the Boston subway system at Scollay square and Essex streets and would proceed to Essex street, Harrison avenue to Palmer street and underground up Dudley and Warren streets to Washington square and Tremont avenue. Station would be built at Essex and Washington streets, Dover and Washington streets, Dover and Harrison and Massachusetts avenues.

* * *

Well-authenticated reports today are that Speaker Cox will make these appointments of important committees chairmanships: Ways and Means, Representative Joseph E. Warner of Taunton; Judiciary Committee and House leadership, Representative William M. Kennard of Somerville; Rathroads, Representative Victor Francis Jewett of Lowell.

LETTER CARRIERS ASK TO WEAR FLAG

New York, Jan. 3.—The privilege of wearing a tiny American flag on the left lapel of each letter carrier's uniform was asked in a resolution adopted unanimously at the annual meeting of the New York Letter Carriers' Association. Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to President Wilson, Postmaster-General Burleson and Congressman Lindbergh that the service rules forbidding the wearing of any insignia not found in the regulation uniform be modified so that patriotic purposes.

Come into intimate contact with the public, the resolution says in substance, the letter carriers wearing the tiny flag would thereby manifest their obligations to Americans and tend to counteract "growing disloyalty."

NURSE SUCCEEDS IN ENDING LIFE

Bessie Lokanoff, who was found Tuesday in the Middlesex Fells reservation with a bullet wound in her breast, died from the effects of poison which she had swallowed before shooting herself. She told the police that she had attempted suicide because she was tired of life.

The young woman gained public notice in 1913, when she made serious charges which she had lodged against officers in the State Insane Hospital at Worcester resulted in an investigation of that institution. With [illegible] told of "electrical" and "hot packing" violent patients.

ARLINGTON GAS PRICE REDUCED

The Gas and Electric Light Commission today ordered the Arlington Gas Light Company to reduce the price of gas from $1.15 to $1.10 per thousand feet.

The action was taken as the result of a complaint made by the Board of Selectmen of Arlington, and a public hearing followed.

The company supplies gas to Arlington, Belmont and Winchester.

Federation Meetings.

Two public meetings will be held next Sunday by the Catholic Federation of the Archdiocese of Boston. The first will be in St. Catherine's parish, Norwood, at 3 o'clock. At 7 in the evening the second meeting will be in St. Charles parish, Woburn.

PEASLEE MAY TESTIFY FOR HIMSELF

Much of her testimony had to do with the friendship of Peaslee and herself for Mr. and Mrs. James R. McDonald, the Sherman agency detectives. She declared that Peaslee could not eat or sleep and did just as McDonald told him. Mrs. Peaslee also told of the visit to the Portland "clairvoyant," who was Mrs. Mabel Kilpack, a detective, she said.

Her story was one of the dramatic incidents of the trial. She testified:

"Mrs. McDonald and I went to Portland to see about having some glasses fixed. After finishing with the oculist, Mrs. McDonald showed me a Portland paper in which was an attractive clairvoyant ad, and suggested that we pay her a visit.

"She told me the clairvoyant always told her something good. I agreed to the visit and we went right away. The girl with the black hat who has been in the courtroom for several days past was the clairvoyant. (She referred to Mabel Kilpack.)

TOLD OF GOLD MINE.

"She was very attractive. She told me a beautiful story about a pot of gold, which would be found in a well on a farm belonging to my husband's folks. This was an old story to me in the family and of course it surprised me. Other little things were told and then we all went out to dinner and then to a moving picture show.

"After the pictures we were met by Morrison and Mr. McDonald. Arriving home, Mrs. McDonald suggested that I have Morrison go to the clairvoyant, stating that the clairvoyant might be able to tell Morrison and McDonald how to get out of the Worcester affair.

"Morrison said he didn't believe in such things or fortune-tellers, but that he would go. He evidently went the next day, for the following night they told us about the visit, and Morrison told me the clairvoyant had accused him of killing my father.

"I spoke up and said the clairvoyant lied in that, so that she didn't tell the truth in anything. McDonald spoke up and said: 'Well, she got one truth, and that was about the Worcester affair.'

SAYS HE DENIED KILLING.

"Morrison then told me that he absolutely denied to the clairvoyant that he killed his father.

"The McDonalds repeatedly brought up the clairvoyant episode. Mrs. McDonald said: 'The clairvoyant told you the truth and you ought to take the clairvoyant's advice.'

"The clairvoyant told Mrs. McDonald that she was to receive a letter. This proved to be true. She showed it to me. It was signed 'Florence,' and it came from Boston. I read the letter many times, then made a copy of it. The copy later was taken from my pocketbook by Mrs. McDonald, and Mr. McDonald reprimanded her for it, saying: 'What right have you in Peaslee's book?'

"The letter said something about wanting some money for the little boy and herself. It was addressed to Mr. McDonald. The writer said she had not seen him lately and wanted to know if he had [illegible] Peaslee's money. I knew about him. She told me she was keeping company with other women and such things.

"She tried to get me to tell every so many things that were not so.

"Naturally, after reading the letter, I told her everything I knew about Morrison.'

"Did you tell her about the murder?" asked Attorney Hull.

"I denied that Morrison killed his father and I have always denied it."

"When Morrison came back from his Providence trip, I was naturally very angry. I called him Mr. Hussey. McDonald and his wife looked as though they were scared to death. I told Morrison I had a good mind to leave him. I added that if I did, he would give me a good check to go to jail.

"Mrs. Jas. R. McDonald told me we could send them both up for ten years for the Providence job. As a result of this affair, Morrison and I agreed to go back to Hemlock and leave the McDonalds.

"Once McDonald told Morrison that he was going to write to Worcester and give himself up. He said Morrison would have to go, too.

"At that time McDonald and his wife had been fighting and Morrison was promised that if he reconciled the two, McDonald would not give himself up. He was constantly taking bromides. His wife was scared to death. We played cards and Morrison made a mistake. McDonald would give him a look as though he would like to eat him alive.

GAVE LIE TO POLICE.

"The day Morrison was arrested, Mr. Murchie, Mr. Sherman and Officer Marden came to the cottage. Sherman sat one one side, Murchie before me and Marden behind me. Another detective stood in the doorway.

"Murchie and Sherman did the talking. They told me of Morrison's arrest on the charge of murdering his father. I said: 'You lie!'

"They then told me Morrison had confessed and handed me a letter from him. They were there three-quarters of an hour. They tried to get me to say that Morrison had been out alone on the night of the murder. I told them of the events of that night and told them Morrison had lied.

"I told them of the Worcester murder, and Sherman kept saying to me, 'Well, you don't know for sure, do you?'

"Sherman then took the letter from my lap, and refused to give it back. When he went out, he told me that I didn't need to tell that Morrison had confessed.

"I didn't see Morrison until the next Monday in Concord."

At 10:20, Mrs. Peaslee finished her direct testimony. She was then cross-examined by Counsel Solomon Murchie. He asked her many questions about the Old Orchard interview.

Q.—Did you say: 'I think Morrison was in the house when the shot was fired, but he may not have been?'

A.—I did not.

Q.—Didn't you prepare to furnish an alibi for Morrison? A.—No. Morrison did exactly what McDonald told him to do.

PREPARED FOR DIVORCE.

Mrs. Peaslee then retold how McDonald would glower at her husband when he made a mistake in card playing.

Q.—Why did you copy the letter that came from Providence? A.—I copied it because Mrs. McDonald told me it would help if I wanted a divorce.

Q.—Did Morrison and his mother get along fairly well. A.—Yes; they seemed to.

Q.—Wasn't he kind of cranky at times with you? A.—No, on the other hand I was crazy with him.

County Solicitor Murchie attempted to show that Peaslee had time to do the shooting after he had gone to the barn to unharness the horse, leaving his wife and child sitting in the wagon.

Mrs. Peaslee declared her husband was not gone over two minutes and that she heard him moving around in the barn. She said she only other time she was out of her sight was when she went into the house to get her husband and the cups, prior to the trip to the village.

Charles F. Carter of Hennicker, the next witness, told of finding the body of his employer, Howard Peaslee. He said:

"I was employed by Howard Peaslee shortly before he was murdered. I was told some time before that I was to do the chores. I got up at 5 a. m. in the morning, worked all day in the toy shop, and then did the chores again at night. I boarded with Morrison and his wife.

"On the night of the murder I ate at the table with Raymond, Morrison, Ethel and Howard. I went out to do the chores and Howard went up town. I then got to my room, dressed up, went to the barber, got a shave and went to prayer meeting.

FOUND BODY IN SHACK.

"When I returned home Morrison and Ethel were in the kitchen. Little Raymond was sitting in an arm chair with his night dress on. I had been gone some time and Morrison said to me:

"'What's the matter, Charlie? Somebody bump you off?'

"I laughed and said, 'No, why?'

"Morrison said, 'Oh, I heard a shot. I guess Howard killed a rat.'

"Ethel then went to bed. I started for bed and Morrison prepared to shave.

By International News Service.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Federal Judge Carpenter today non-suited the bribery case against Miss Jessie Elizabeth Cope of Los Angeles, known as "The great big girl of the Golden West."

The case grew out of the indictment of Colonel Charles A. Alexander of Providence, R. I., by the government under the Mann act, on the charge of transporting Miss Cope through several States.

Miss Cope was charged with offering to split $10,000 of Colonel Alexander's money with Hinton G. Clabaugh, chief of the local bureau of the Department of Justice, in case a verdict should be returned against the Rhode Island man. The indictment against Colonel Alexander stands.

Glass of Hot Water Before Eating a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, pimples and boils, with both bane back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a rose in June by washing the poisons and toxins from the body. Get a quart of hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderful. Immediately you begin to cut all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acids and you feel a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the rosee begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way after.—Advertisement.

'ARBITRATION A PRODUCT OF FORCE'

By International News Service

Washington, Jan. 3.—"Unless the American countries are prepared to enforce their will with military strength as the last resort, they cannot hope to enforce the principles of arbitration," Robert Ludlow Fowler of New York, declared before the members of the Pan-American Union today.

In a veiled reference to the United States, Mr. Fowler said, "A public lethargic, commercial nation, necessarily regardful of self-interest, is, when unarmed for conflict, in no position to pose as the successful advocate of arbitration. It is in a like situation to that of the stout and plethoric burgher of the Middle Ages, when confronted with the man in armor. While advocating the desirability of peace, we should never forget that all the laws and all the nations of the world are the result of war and of force.

POWER ALWAYS NEEDED

"If the American States ever hope to protect their neutrality, they must be powerful. Any country, which advocates arbitration as a substitute for force, with any hope of gaining this end, must be sufficiently strong that powerful military powers will pay heed."

Mr. Fowler declared that the Monroe doctrine was primarily responsible for the present happy state of most of the American countries, and their freedom from European domination.

"The future of the new world would have been altogether different," he said, "and the liberty and safety of all the inhabitants of the American would have been in jeopardy every hour but for it."

ADVOCATES FEDERATION.

The proposed federation of the countries of the Americas, which has been eagerly advocated by members of the congress, was advocated by Mr. Fowler as the first step toward the ultimate abolition of war.

The general meeting of the congress scheduled for today was changed to a meeting of the executive committee, in order to prevent objectionable resolutions from coming before the congress. The only general meeting will be the last day of the session, Saturday.

Interest in the afternoon session centred in the appearance of William Jennings Bryan, former Secretary of State, before the educational section of the congress.

Woman Doctor Tells of Europe's "War Babies"

Dr. Zoe Ullian, who is visiting here after serving fifteen months in French and Belgian hospitals. She tells a graphic story of the front, to which she will not return.

"War takes hundreds of them. I have I seen everywhere in France. I never saw so many babies," said Dr. Zoa Ullian, who has just come from the war zone to visit relatives at No. 111 Wamsbeck street, Roxbury.

She has seen enough of warfare and will not return to the front. Most of her time was spent in the hospitals in France and paris of Belgium.

For six months she has been with the Swiss troops in their mobilization and took care of them when ill with pneumonia, pleurisy and typhus fever.

"In all my work in the hospitals caring for the wounded and sick, I enjoyed seeing the babies everywhere I went. Most of them seen in France come from delgium. Many of the mothers are mere children, she said.

"One of the most impressive sights that I witnessed was the toldnight fcleance of prisoners. I saw this three times. The Germans were so glad to be released and the French were most enthusiastic.

GAIN IN COURAGE.

"For many of them I had written letters and they were all very grateful for what you did for them.

"Many of the poor fellows were wounded badly in the legs. Nearly all the French soldiers in the beginning of the war that came under my observation had wounds there. Some of them were so young you couldn't help but pity them.

"I've seen young men father solemn when going into the trenches, but after they return from them more encouraging than ever. Their experiences at the front did not seem to unnerve them.

"Every soldier is worshipped in France today. The women are doing the hard work formerly done by the men. I passed through so many villages where you see nothing but women, old men and children. All the women are doing heroic work. In many places they have women policemen.

"The French are very enthusiastic over the outcome of the war. The Germans seem to me more glum lately. I think they are tired of fighting. They want to go back to their families. The many prisoners that I came in contact told me they wished the war was over."

"Then many soldiers do not know what they have been fighting for. The French soldiers, I think, enjoy war."

"I have seen enough of war and I am preparing to make my home in America. The sight of ugly wounds for nearly fifteen months wears upon you."

SAY BOMB CLEW WAS LOST WITH EXPLOSION

As an aftermath to the attempt to dynamite State House on Saturday, a clerk went today over the question whether Chemist Walter L. Wedger did right to blow up the dynamite, and the witness maintaining it thus destroying any possible clew to the criminal.

Police officials pointed out that the suitcase must have been identified by a maker's name and number, and that such clews preserved, the purchaser might have been traced.

Deputy Chief Neal of the State police said:

"It is not true that State Chemist Wedger exploded the dynamite in the suitcase instead of removing it from its container and thus preserving the lock, name paper and whatever other contents it may have had."

State Chemist Wedger, in his own defence, today asserted that the suitcase had furnished the police with a workable clew. He declined to state what that was. He said:

SAYS POLICE GOT CLEW.

"We examined the suitcase before we destroyed it and found a clew upon which the State police are working. In addition, State police officials here are tracing dynamite throughout the State to find if possible where this dynamite was; was it bought by a friend of an amateur, and he may have stolen the dynamite, or was it bought somewhere or bought in such a manner that we can trace him.

"The interference or intimidation by the scientific over whether or not it was wise to destroy the suitcase was in no way responsible for the explosion. I, Rowe, who is in charge of the building, knew where the bomb was exploded, he said.

"I notice that some are inclined to criticise me for not destroying the bomb in the building, but I was told by the police not to risk dissecting the bomb and it was decided to put it in the State House last Saturday morning, and in a spirit of fairness decided to let the police be at the scene.

"I have had a lifetime experience in blasting and handling of dynamite and my judgment has been that of others of it under all conditions.

"We were both present at my quarry when Mr. Wedger brought out the straw suitcase Saturday afternoon and the two men opened it under which it had been found. He said he would be glad to get it for the State House, but that Chief Neal would not allow him to do it and told him he would have to risk his life to get it. I took it over back of the quarry to the ledges and Wedger and I followed at a respectful distance. He then proceeded to untie the rope around it, when I cautioned him to be careful.

CARRIED OUT ORDERS.

"We watched him until he had the rope all unwound and took his jack knife and commenced to cut into the box to get at the contents when I told him so was foolish to risk his life for a clew.

"He said his orders from Chief Neal were to cut and observe it and he was going to carry them out. I walked away about 100 feet and my foreman followed me. I had not fully opened, he called us to look at it in a most human exclamation. It was the deadliest looking thing I ever saw.

"Several pieces of rusty round-iron stuck in British shells were found with dynamite, and these fittings were not screwed together, but were separate and the dynamite was exploding from the joints. My foreman fell of some of it and pronounced it partly frozen. While in this condition it is very sensitive and should be handled with great care.

"Hundreds of men have lost their lives handling dynamite frozen dynamite in cartridges, but the attempt to remove this mass of loose dynamite mixed with pieces of steel pipe such I knew meant sure death for all of us, so I told Wedger we had better blow it up right where it was.

"He thought we had better get the stuff out of the building and I told him there were any more detonators in it, and started to remove the sections of the pipe. He got one section and as my foreman pulled him away and I insisted that he let it alone, for in my opinion it meant instant death if the sections were wedged in tight.

TOOK GREAT RISK.

"Wedger consented to blow it where it was after I talked to him a while, and when we picked up pieces of twisted steel over 500 feet away I told him help thinking that if I had not been there, pieces of Wedger would have been scattered over the quarry.

"For the past five years he has used my quarry for testing explosives and destroying bombs of all sorts, and I have been with him many times when he has picked to pieces all kinds of infernal machines and I never yet saw him hesitate at anything. On the other hand, I have at times called him rash and foolhardy, but he is a chemist and I presume knows how far he can go. We frequently predict that some day he will go in the air.

Lynn Child Is Twelfth Victim of "Acidosis"

5-Year-Old Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Brown Dies of Strange Malady.

Virginia Frances, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Brown of No. 21 Hillside avenue, Lynn, died today from the baffling malady, generally described as acidosis, or more specifically as influenza by many physicians, which has ravaged Greater Boston babyhood since Christmas.

This makes the twelfth death reported from this strange malady.

Ninety new cases came to light today in Greater Boston, the great majority of these afflicting infants and young children. Most of these cases are in Brighton.

The distribution is as follows: Brighton, seventy-three; Newton, five; Brookline, four; Auburndale, two; Watertown, two; Cambridge, one; Woburn, two; Somerville, one.

The distribution in ages is: Children 12, adults 17.

In addition to these 90 cases which have come to light, there are unknown numbers of cases, it is thought, in other parts of Greater Boston.

LYNN CHILD DIES.

Virginia Frances Brown of Lynn, who died today, was stricken ill Friday. Dr. Oliver R. Bixby was called the next day. A second child in the family, Frank A. Brown, Jr., is slightly ill and is being closely watched. Dr. Bixby said that Virginia's death was due to acidosis.

Two cases of acidosis were reported by Dr. William H. Kelsher of Woburn today. They were Francis, four years old, and Robert one and one-half years old, children of Bartholomew Feeley of No. 49 Arlington road, Woburn.

The children have been ill two days, but are now believed to be on the road to recovery. Their symptoms are said to be identical with those which the other children have shown, including vomiting and an intense thirst.

As far as is known, the children had no Christmas candy, and Dr. Kelsher does not believe that candy is responsible for their illness.

AUTHORITIES IN CONFLICT.

Examination of cultures from relatives of persons supposed to have died from "acidosis" today revealed a conflict of opinion between Medical Examiner George R. McGrath and the Health Department.

Medical Examiner Magrath reported that the autopsy on one child indicated that the child died from influenza and that there was no visual evidence of poison or symptoms of a violent nature.

Microscopic tests of the cultures of the relatives of the dead children and of the cultures of members of other afflicted households made by the health laboratories, however, show influenza, according to the report made today by Health Commissioner Francis X. Maloney.

Medical Examiner Magrath has refused to change his judgment, however, as have the Boston health officials until tests of the cultures of the ten victims have been made. These tests examinations are expected to throw light on the mystery.

The autopsies revealed nothing.

It was learned today that the father of a child fatal victim connected by his bite his child's body examined under the hoods of science, but said that the name be kept from the public.

ADULT CASES REPORTED.

A new Brookline case, making four in that town, became known today. The patient is a woman on Cladin road. She is not seriously ill, but her symptoms are the same as those in the general run of children's cases.

Dr. Francis J. McMahon of No. 519 Washington street, Brookline, has one of the other Brookline cases, a woman of twenty-four years. The other two cases are children. All four patients are doing well.

Ellen Murray, five and one-half years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew Murray of No. 194 Harvard street, Cambridge, who was stricken yesterday with symptoms of acidosis and who was taken to the Cambridge Hospital on the advice of Dr. Felix Mollitr, is "resting comfortably" today, according to a report given out by the hospital authorities.

Dr. McDirr was called Saturday morning and found that little Ellen had been unable to retain anything on her stomach. He ordered saleratus water. Mrs. Murray gave the child cream of tartar instead. Dr. McDirr called the next morning, and, as the child's condition had not improved, ordered her removed to the hospital.

The fact that the child began vomiting ten minutes after drinking a quantity of milk caused the Cambridge Board of Health to take action.

Mrs. Murray says:

"We had no Christmas candy this year. Candy cannot be blamed for her condition. The other children are: Christina, four; James, three, and a three-months-old baby. They are all right. I hope nothing happens to them. I blame the milk for little Ellen's condition."

Dr. William L. Ripley of Brighton has fifty-two cases, of which twenty-three came yesterday up to 10 p. m. and eight late last night. The distribution is: Brighton 42, Newton 5, Watertown 2, Auburndale 2.

Dr. Ripley had one Somerville call, but had to turn it over to a Somerville colleague. He calls the malady influenza.

Dr. Alfred W. Gwinnell of No. 558 Washington street, Brighton, has twenty-five cases, ten of which are children, in the Farnell and Allston sections of Brighton. The cases started with sore throat, developing into influenza, with a certain amount of toxic absorption.

One case, that of a six-months infant, is critical. Dr. Gwinnell does not undertake to specify the cause, but he does not think it due to Christmas candy, as four reports said, or to general overloading of the stomach. The ages of his patients range from six months to one and one-half years.

Dr. Walter H. Cooley of No. 205 Faneuil street, Brighton, has five cases of severe form of influenza or gastro-intestinal type. The patients, all under two years of age, were reported today as "improving."

Of the new Brighton cases reported today five live on Monument street, two on Newton street, one on Washington street, one on Bradbury street and two on Hobart street.

There are five cases on Charles River road in Newton.

No additional deaths have been reported, so the physicians and parents feel encouraged. The need of prompt action at the first sign of illness is strongly emphasized.

Dr. Ripley has had more than 100 cases since this malady appeared. None has been fatal.

DR. RIPLEY'S ADVICE.

Dr. Ripley said today:

"There is no question in my mind but what this disease is influenza. The severe period of the illness is from the first to the third or fifth day. If the doctor can strike at it quickly he can stop it at once pretty well. Parents are now calling in physicians without loss of time, and a great deal is saved by this prompt action. The children I am treating range in age from three weeks to seven years.

Little Ellen Murray of Cambridge, acidosis patient, of five and a half years ,reported comfortable today at Cambridge Hospital.

DEMAND POLICE BE RESTRAINED AT TUNNEL

Assistance for the immediate abolition of the penny toll at the East Boston tunnel continued today.

Former Representative Thomas H. Niland of Noodle Island district makes written demand upon Police Commissioner O'Meara that special officers of the Boston Elevated Railway Company, which operates the tunnel, be restrained from "accosting or assaulting" peaceable citizens using the tunnel. Niland says he was assaulted by an Elevated special Saturday morning, when he attempted to escape the toll.

The Rev. Paul R. Blanchard, assistant pastor of the Maverick Church of East Boston, has a plan in mind, he says, but he is holding it for a meeting which he has called for tonight at the church. A committee of clergymen and political leaders of East Boston is to attend tonight's meeting to formulate plans for action at a citizens' mass meeting at the church Wednesday night.

The general idea of the two meetings is to protest as effectively as possible against the continuance of the toll, which was to have been abolished on New Year.

President Richard C. Kirby of the East Boston Improvement Association conferred with association members and other district citizens yesterday about calling a mass meeting. But it was decided to abandon this plan because the Boston City Council cannot appropriate money to make up for the toll collection until the beginning of the Boston fiscal year, February 1. President Kirby said today:

"The general opinion of East Boston citizens is that they are not being treated fairly. It is the same old story, over and over again, that East Boston never gets anything. If we had a man from East Boston in the City Council we might be able to get something. But for the present we will let the matter drop until February 1."

PASTOR GOING AHEAD

But Assistant Pastor Blanchard of the Maverick Church is going ahead with plans for his preliminary meeting tonight and the citizens' meeting Wednesday night.

Today the tunnel turnstiles were again guarded by police. A number of patrons refused to pay the toll. Their names were taken.

J. Harvey White, publicity agent of the Elevated, says that the road has seemed to think that the Elevated got the pennies.

"The Elevated is acting merely as a collecting agent for the city of Boston," he states. "The Elevated does not keep the money collected in tolls. If any action should be taken, such action should be taken by the City Council. The names collected have been given to Corporation Counsel John A. Sullivan."

FAVORS EXPERT TO WATCH OVER SMALL LOANS

Supervisor of Loan Agencies Frank H. Lopez, in his report to the Legislature for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1915, made public today, recommends a standard system of bookkeeping for all small loan agents, the addition of an expert accountant in his department and an increase in his office force sufficient to conduct a small loan "clearing house" of information. In his report he says:

"The great problem which has confronted me since assuming the duties of Supervisor of Loan Agencies has been in regard to supervision without sufficient power to supervise definitely.

The leading question in regard to the business of making small loans is relative to the charges and the interest therefor, to determine which, it seems to me, there has never been sufficient effort made.

Yet to reach the proper answer to the query appears to be a very simple matter.

I think that this may be ascertained, so far as the money lenders are concerned, my opinion is that there should be established by the supervisor a standardized method of keeping the books of the licensed money lenders; then there should be an account connected with this department who would be in close touch at all times with the money lenders' ledgers. By this process there could be determined in time just what rates could be.

The difficulty with the loan business has been the large number of borrowers who would become indebted to many offices and be in a position where it would be utterly impossible for them to meet their indebtedness. The "clearing house" method could obviate this absolutely.

Under the "clearing house" system if there was suspicion that the family breadwinner was a borrower, and it was desired so to do, the supervisor would provide blank notices to the lenders, forbidding them to loan him any more money, and forbidding him also to be accepted as an indorser for such a length of time as the objector should desire.

Most Men Weighed in Balance Are Found Wanting for Something They Overlooked

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

BASEBALL LORDS MEET

Will Take Up Disposition of Players Among Other Important Things.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 3.—Promptly at 10 o'clock this morning the National Baseball Commission, composed of Gerry Herrmann of Cincinnati, John K. Tener of the National League and Ban Johnson of the American League, went into session for their annual meeting. Johnson arrived this morning from Chicago and hurried direct to the meeting rooms.

When questioned regarding just what was likely to happen, Ban remarked that nothing would be done other than the regular meeting of the commission to transact their regular business. He stated that the final peace session between the representatives of organized ball and the Federals would not take place for at least a week or ten days.

Despite this assertion by Ban, there are not a few among those present for the conference but who believe the subject will be thoroughly gone over at the session. It is quite probable that when the session of the National Commission is adjourned the representatives of organized ball will have framed a program which will be acted into the peace conference and worked out to the end. Organized ball seeks a victory in the meeting to come and will work to get one.

STATUS OF PLAYERS.

Probably the most interesting matter to be discussed will be the status of the players formerly connected with the St. Louis Federal club and the players of the Chicago Federal League club, in case the Chicago National League club is purchased by Charles Weeghman, former president of the Chicago Federals.

There is some doubt as to whether the players of these two Federal League clubs will be subject to the waiver rule of organized baseball. It is contended by some that the purchase of the St. Louis Americans by Phil Ball and his associates for the service of the St. Louis Federals serves the purpose of consolidating these two teams, and it is contended, the Federal League players should be subject to the waiver rule of the American League.

MUST OBTAIN WAIVERS.

In other words, waivers from each American League club would have to be obtained on every player of the St. Louis Browns before they could be disposed of outside that league. The same condition, it is contended, will apply to the Chicago National League club in case it is purchased by Charles Weeghman.

Others, however, claim that all Federal League players were ineligible to organized baseball and that title to all players was vested in the Peace League as a league and not as individual clubs.

FOR OPEN COMPETITION.

If this contention is upheld, according to a high baseball authority, then it will become necessary for the St. Louis Americans to purchase, in case they desire to do so, the players of the St. Louis Federal League club in open competition. It is argued by this same authority that if this is upheld then the waiver rule will not apply to any Federal League players.

The other matter which has to do with the peace treaty will be the fixing of a date and a place of meeting for the committee appointed to thresh out and settle the difficulties that arose between the Federal and International Leagues concerning the Baltimore and Buffalo Federal League clubs.

MEETING WAS POSTPONED.

This committee was to have met here tomorrow, but has since been postponed indefinitely and it was announced yesterday in New York that the commission would fix the place of meeting and the date.

August Herrmann announced today that a large number of cases would be discussed by the commission tomorrow, but there were none of an exceptional character.

BALL ISSUES STATEMENT.

Phil Ball, former owner of the St. Louis Federals and now head of the St. Louis Americans, said today it was his understanding that the players of the St. Louis Federal League club would not become subject to the waiver rule of baseball through his purchase of the Browns.

"Furthermore," he said, "that was the understanding with Harry F. Sinclair and the other nine owners who represented the Federal League during the recent peace negotiations at Cincinnati, and I learned from the meeting, at which time I signed the peace agreement."

"Suppose the National Commission should decide that the St. Louis Federal players are subject to the waiver rule, and that debars me from buying the Browns," Mr. Ball was asked. "I have already bought the Browns," he answered.

BROWNS OFFICIALLY CHANGE HANDS TODAY

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 3.—The Browns will be sold officially to the local Federal League magnate today, Attorney McDermid of Cincinnati arrived this morning to go into action with Phil Ball's lawyers this afternoon.

McDermid is handling Hedges' interests and will collect the balance of the purchase money due to be $200,000 to complete the deal. The first payment to Hedges was $50,000.

WISDOM 'O' BLINKEY BEN

BY H. M. WALKER

"I CLAIM that's shootin' 'em on the wing," said Blinkey Ben. "I'm referrin' to the white glove an' lily services recently held over our ole time pals Ad Wolgast an' Joe Mandot.

"Both ole timers knocked out in the same ring on the same night! Wow! That's what I call cleanin' 'em up in bunches. The stoppin' o' Ad Adolph don't mean anything o' particular importance to the lightweight class cause Ad slowed up long time ago an' has only been a limpin' his way a pickin' up such money as fell to a battered ole timer with an honorable name.

"An' to think that foxy Leach Cross, the stallin' kid—the Jimmy Valentine o' the boxers—should turn the trick. Leaches is almost ready to' the carpet slippers an' rocker by the fire. He's been in the trenches many a year an' long since passed away as a championship possibility. The best Leaches gets for his surprise act is to be pointed out as the man who stopped Ad Wolgast.

"Mandot received the ole chin tickler from a youngster named Benny Leonard. An' accordin' to all telegraph reports, the knockout slam had all the trimmin's, war talk, jump an' everything. This boosts Leonard to the front o' the stage 'long with that other late comer, one Ted Lewis, who has been joltin' jaws with both fists an' much nonchalance.

"An' believe me, the lightweight division is in need o' new timber. When the sport public got sick an' tired o' seein' Freddie Welsh an' Charley White pull their brother hands an' to six an' ten rounds, the managers o' these toe twirlers got together an' signed for twenty rounds o' the same stuff an' put the moss on the market. What was the result? Not a club in America moved a finger to get the match. It was the worst slap in the face that a champion ever got. I like both these lil' boys, but I can't say a word in their defence. They're gittin' jus' what they deserved.

"Lookit the ole days o' real fighters. Bat Nelson was such a card that the promoters pulled him an' Joey Gans way over to Goldfield an' got the money. An' in them days they wasn't enough o' Goldfield to keep the inside o' a circus tent warm. Jus' the Elite Restaurant, an' the Palm Cafe, an' the shacks on Manigal Hill. The crowd wheeled in from San Francisco an' Los Angeles an' the East, 'cause a regular fight was on tap.

"Would anybody follow Welsh an' White to Goldfield? No, sir-ee. They might chase 'em that far, but not follow 'em in the accepted meanin' of the word. Welsh can only blame himself for this state o' affairs. He's bunked the public with his 'waltze me 'round Maggie' stuff so long that his name means no more to the regular fight fans than a Maltese entry at a dog show.

"That's why it's a good thing to have thugs like Lewis an' Leonard a-comin' 'long to put the red blood o' life back in the 133-pound class. The chilled champs have killed the game. Kilbane has embalmed the featherweight division, an' Welsh has poisoned the public mind as in the lightweights. Plain words from a plain man.

"The passin' o' Wolgast takes an interestin' character out o' the game. Adolph was one o' the fistic'est champions that ever held the title. Any way Ad looked there was a tough kid a challengin' him. An' he jus' laid back his ears an' fought the whole crowd. Lookit that one year o' work when he whipped Memmic, La Grave, Hogan, Burns an' Moran—all by the knockout slam. Some fightin baby.

"An' ole Ad Wolgast, with his homely mush, an' black cigars, an' gold-headed cane, an' pale yellow diamonds, an' a human calliope for a manager. He was the fightin'est bird that ever came down the pike, an' there's been some tough ones turned the bend."

"P. S.—I see where a guy was arrested with eight cans o' hop in his pocket. Must a been a New York baseball writer."

Malden Pin Star Seeks Battle With Rinnig

MALDEN has a "kid" bowler whom it is willing to stack against any juvenile cuddling pegger in New England. He is Master Walter Haley, aged eighteen.

THE boy whom Walter, or rather his backers, are after is Charley Rinnig of the Greater Boston Carroll House and several other prominent leagues. Charley, too, has established quite a fine record and is hanging in the century class.

YOUNG HALEY is desirous of meeting Rinnig in a twenty-string match. He doesn't care where Rinnig chooses to roll half of the match provided the other half is rolled in Malden. Haley's backers have $200 ready to wager on their charge any time Rinnig says the word.

AFTER a long and arduous journey, the Athletic Association has finally assumed command in the Sons of St. George League. Each and every go about their job in any cheap manner, either, for in order to keep the top they had to gather a four point win from the Victorias, who were leading at the time.

LOCAL "fans" will regret to learn of the death of Fred J. Riddell, one of the game's biggest boosters. Riddell, a New Yorker, was well-known in Boston. Last year he brought his son, Glen, on here only to see him beaten by Paul Peterson in a hotly contested game of tenpins, candles and ducks. The older Riddell has been in attendance at all the big bowling tournaments. His team, the Brunswicks, won the world's championship in the A. B. C. tournament at Pittsburgh in 1909.

THE Foster brothers, individual bowlers in the Mystic Valley League, get back in the Townsend league this night. They have just returned from a trip to the Bermudas.

TOMORROW evening, on the Summer Street Alleys, the Oliver Typewriter League will try to stem the tide of Remington First victories when they stack up against the leaders of the Typewriter League. They will probably find it an difficult as when they met each in the season.

THE Paint and Oil and Glucose Leagues get back into the limelight this evening after an absence of two weeks owing to the holidays.

THE Murray team of the Greater Boston League now takes on unexpected brace and now looms up as one of the real contenders for the championship. At that it is a hotly contested race, with the possible exception of Merrick, as close are the teams running.

BOWDOIN SQUARE, though showing itself to be the class in the U. S. battling, cannot get going. In the one outfit with an average better than 500. Still it has trouble winning.

THE CITY League race is dwindling down to a two-team affair with Murray and Chauncy the contenders.

FOR real, honest-to-goodness consis-tency, the bowler who can touch Joe Baker, the Arlington Boat Club leaguer. This star seldom bowls a game in the season with an average better than 120. His present mark is 123, one of the best ever compiled in Boston pins.

GLOVER AND CHICK IN GLOUCESTER GO

Mike Glover of South Boston, the world's welterweight champion, goes on with Joe Chick in a twenty-round bout before the Lions Club of Gloucester tonight. Chick is a tough, willing scrapper and should give Glover a hot argument. The Gloucester promoters claim they will stage a fitting set of preliminary events.

SOCCER AT LAWRENCE.

The schools of Lawrence and district will decide at a meeting to be held Wednesday night whether or not they will add soccer football to their list of sports. Secretary George M. Collins of the State Association will attend and speak a good word for the game.

Yale Admits No Chance to Land Dr. Al Sharpe

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 3.—A conference has just been held here by Vance McCormick, chairman of the Yale committee of three to find a new football head coach, and university officials who are directly concerned in the work of the committee.

McCormick reported that it is impossible to secure the release of Dr. Al Sharpe from his work at Cornell. Sharpe is so well in New Haven, would make an ideal choice to organize a department of athletics at Yale and he has done at Cornell, where he is director of baseball, football, basketball and gymnasium work.

The committee of three is considering three or four prominent Yale coaches, but will not report immediately. A move will probably be made soon to add two to their membership, making a committee of five. Their work will not cease after they have selected a new head for football coach.

With three as a sort of column, the new council will have the advantage of the best Yale athletic traditions in starting his career as director of athletics at the university, for all shades of university sentiment feel implicit confidence in the judgment of the committee that have been chosen to reorganize athletics.

Crimson Track Squad Starts Early Work

Harvard's track candidates start getting ready for the big Winter and Spring meets today when at 2:30 o'clock they report to Ellery H. Clark and "Butch" Donovan in the gymnasium. The candidates in the sprinters and distance runs will be worked on the board track by Donovan, while Clark will instruct his charges in the field events in the baseball cage.

An innovation is being tried in calling out the hammer throwers with the rest of the squad. By stretching a large sheet of canvas across the interior of the cage, it is hoped to give the candidates extra training.

The relay men will prepare for the Coast Artillery games January 29. The team race against Cornell and Yale at the B. A. A. February 5, the mile relay against Penn February 21 at Hartford, and the intercollegiate games at New York March 5.

The freshman relay will probably meet the Yale yearlings at the B. A. A. meet.

MASKED MARVEL TO MEET LEWIS AGAIN

New York, Jan. 3.—"Strangler" Lewis and the Masked Marvel, who have met in two sensational bouts at the international wrestling tournament, will grapple with each other for the third time at the Manhattan Opera House tonight. In the first bout Lewis threw the Marvel by what was believed to be a fluke hold and in the second encounter the men wrestled over two hours without either gaining a fall.

HARVARD'S HOCKEY SQUAD SLICED TO 19

Harvard's hockey team goes to the training table for the first time today. Coach Wesley Winsor pruned the squad to nineteen and announces that active work will start at the Arena tonight. Saturday the Crimson plays Queen's College. The players retained by Winsor are Abbot, Baxter, Baldwin, Bliss, Clark, Curtis, Dana, Goodale, Fisher Gardner, Liggett, Lombard, W. Morgan, J. E. P. Morgan, Percy, T. Rice, W. Rice, Thacher and Wilde.

Cleveland Turned Down Question Amateur Status

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR

IT became known today that Harry Shannon, manager of the Cleveland Hockey Club, the organization which has created so much talk in Ontario, Canada, was in town for a short time recently looking for games. He sought one with Freddie Huntington, the B. A. A. leader, and met with a refusal.

Next he saw Fred Hoey, manager of the Arena Hockey Club, and met with but little success in that quarter. While Hoey didn't refuse the Cleveland leader a date, he did leave the matter in abeyance. Hoey, who is quite well posted on Canadian hockey matters, decided to wait a short time before booking the game.

This aggregation will have the benefit of the Winsor system of coaching [illegible] for cooperation more than individual ability. Those who have watched the Crimson graduates in practice consider the team fully as fast as either the B. A. A. or Arena sevens. In fact they boldly assert that Winsor stands a mighty fine chance of annexing the Amateur League championship as well as the Boston title.

Last Winter Queen's College defeated Harvard by a score of 2 goals to 1, but in order to repeat this trip it must present a stronger team than the one it brought down a year ago. This season's Harvard team is one of the best amateur hockey sevens of them all.

The game will undoubtedly bring [illegible] play considerable of the style of hockey used in the big professional contests in Canada. That is the system of following up the player with the puck, a most baffling game.

WARNING!

If the average man only knew how high staples, such as Blue Serges, Silk Mixed Worsteds and All Wool Suitings, are climbing, the prices I quote today would pack my stores. I have orders for two months' standing on Blue Serges for the coming Spring. This lets me in on the low prices, buying in great quantities. This is no bugaboo.

I have just completed the greatest year in the history of my business, and the month of December makes me very optimistic for a big January. I bought my merchandise early, woolens that I can positively guarantee colors on.

I offer you, today, Coronet Worsted Company's Blue Serge, actual weight between 11 and 12 oz., it feels up and has the body of a 14-oz. cloth, can be worn all the year round, and there isn't a tailor today advertising this cloth under $20.00 for a suit, and I predict that it will be used in clothing selling for $30.00 before the season is over. I will specialize on this, suit and extra pants made to measure, and I don't care if you are as big as a whale. Suit to order and an extra pair of trousers free $12.75

I have three or four styles of fine Oakes Worsteds, absolutely all wool. These cloths were bought to sell around $25.00 or $35.00. My price, suit to order, including an extra pair of trousers free............... $12.75

The Story of "Baby Bollinger"

By H. S. Haiselden, M. D.

CHAPTER XX.—(Continued).

Copyright, 1915, by Harry J. Haiselden.

I FOUND that the complaining witness against me was a man who was a cripple. ...

... writing a book to explain my deed ... I left the inquiry knowing that I was condemned. This committee would report unfavorably. They would ask to have me expelled from the society. I was not backward in saying so. I knew from the attitude of the questioners and ...

I was condemned for taking the public into my confidence. I was condemned for being frank, open, truthful.

I was condemned for differing with Hippocrates, dead these two thousand years.

I waited some word from the committee. No word came.

The following morning I read condemnation blazoned on the pages of the newspapers.

I have been condemned for using the newspapers to explain ... and my views to the people.

And because of this I ... my condemnation through the newspapers. I was denied ... medium of expression. They employed it without hesitation.

It was written there ... the committee would report to the society and recommend that I be summarily expelled.

You who have been reading this book have been judging me. You have inspected every word and line with care. You have been making up your minds whether or not it is right to let a baby die under ... are judging me according to my just deserts. I welcome your judgment, even if it is against me.

These men of the committee did not judge me so. They judged me according to the secret ethics of a professional code that should have died a natural death hundreds of years ago.

I am ... in my power to appeal from this decision to the Council of the Society. I shall do so. I shall see whether or not it is right for a man to say a word for himself in a matter which is being discussed by all ...

But ... to whom the final solution of the problem means probably more than it does to any other man—I am barred, by this committee of ethical experts, from having any say in the matter.

In other words, I should have let Baby Bollinger die and then kept my mouth shut, on the old theory ...

... the story of Baby Bollinger to a close.

I withheld the knife.

The child died.

I have told why I withheld the knife; why it is sometimes better to withhold the knife.

I described the sick baby, the child who was so sick that nothing in this world could cure it.

Death cured it.

The soul went out and left that miserable shell behind.

The father and mother were glad ...

I ask you now. What are you going to do about it?

You know the whole truth. The whole case is in.

There are things that can be done ...

JURY OF PHYSICIANS.

Such a law would provide for the establishing of a jury of competent ... physicians to determine the action. Hospitals ... be provided by the State to which such cases can be taken and where a final judgment of life or death can be determined.

The unfit are with us. They are increasing among us. Horrid semi-humans draw themselves along all of our streets; they are closeted in many of our homes.

What are you going to do about it?

If the story of Baby Bollinger has been of any help to you in making up your mind on this important problem I am glad I have written it.

If Baby Bollinger helped, even a little, then it was well that Baby Bollinger lived—even if it lived only six days.

And if I have helped even insignificantly I am glad. I do not begrudge the trouble I have gone through or the troubles that are still ahead of me.

I only ask you to consider and ...

Forbes Declares That it Is Time for Investors to Seriously Consider Selling Greatly Boomed "War Stocks" and Buy Dependable Securities

U. S. CHAMBER SEES GREAT NEW ERA

Washington, Jan 3.—"The spirit of optimism and hopefulness prevails to a degree that has not been apparent for nearly a decade. The general belief and expectation is for such prosperity during 1916 as will recompense the people of this country for all their past misfortunes."

So says a report issued by the Statistics and Standards Committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. It adds:

"The adverse effect of the conflict in Europe still prevails in some sections, though to a very much less extent than at this time last year; there are still scattered fears of the possibility of this country being involved in the gigantic strife. But the large portion of the people are paying less and less attention to the war and more and more are concentrating their thoughts and efforts on domestic matters.

"The influence of the war at present as a whole is more favorable than adverse, because of the tremendous impetus it has given to certain lines of manufacture, especially east of the Alleghanies, and likewise to many agricultural products.

"This influence is a material factor in the present high prices of sheep, cattle, wool, grain and of the products of leather, steel, iron, copper, brass, lead and zinc or spelter.

"Much of the prosperity in the grain-raising sections is due to the fact that the farmer is selling freely because of remunerative figures for his product. There seems to be no manner to doubt these prices will decline materially in case of peace.

"General belief centres around the conviction that the war will last for some time and that the part of wisdom is to make the most of the present situation, regrettable as it is, and not take undue thought of the morrow by attempting to forecast the likelihood of what will happen if peace is declared.

Big Increase in Earnings of New Haven Railroad

New York, Jan. 3.

THE general improvement in railroad conditions throughout the country is reflected in the report of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company and its subsidiaries for the five months ended November 30, 1915, made public today.

The net corporate income of the parent company during the period was $3,331,973.41, as against $1,175,388.19 for the corresponding five months of 1914.

During the month of November the net corporate income was more than triple that of the same month in 1914.

The net corporate income of the various subsidiary companies was $2,911,760 as against $1,761,822 for the same period in 1914.

SECOND BOOM IN SECURITIES LOOKED FOR

By BOERSIANER.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Will there be a second boom in securities? is a question in the minds of all who have to do with values. If you believe that will continue to flourish, the query may be answered affirmatively.

It may be answered in another way by drawing a parallel or contrariwise as Pat would say. Two and a half years ago the Pearson-Farquhar syndicate was [illegible] possibly in distress.

This Kartel had [illegible] in Great Britain and in Spain, in South and North America, including Mexico. The chiefs had invested heavily in Rio Grande, Wabash, Rock Island and Missouri Pacific shares. Essentially it had been a speculative investment from which magnificent returns were expected.

* * *

The market had [illegible] descending steadily and inexorably, one of those movements which nothing can stay, which must spend its pessimistic course, though its inexorable nature was not generally recognized.

One day the street was startled by the report that the late Mr. Pearsons had conferred with a Wall Street syndicate and had offered all his stockholdings—Wabash, Rock Island, Rio Grande and Missouri Pacific—at the then market prices, which were already low.

There were several days of bargaining in which it was whispered that Pearsons had been "shaved as close as a Turk," meaning that the Wall Street syndicate had taken advantage of the needful position of the vendor and had secured the stocks of the Pearsons-Farquhar syndicate at sacrificial quotations.

* * *

So it appeared for two months after the forty sale[illegible] But at the end of the year the street had revised its view of the matter. There gradually germinated the suspicion that the vendor, frail, nervous, valetudinarian Pearsons—who was a business victim—had caught a glimpse of the future and had hurriedly disposed of his holding to a powerful syndicate instead of sacrificing them in the open market.

The suspicion was far fetched. Mr. Pearsons had but penetrated the future. He believed, as all leading financiers at the time believed, that securities had already reached bottom. But he had to have money for his utilities companies scattered throughout the world and only readily marketable stuff was what he sold to the New York syndicate stuff that within six months had depreciated 30 per cent.

The Pearsons-Farquhar Kartel saved, the purchasing syndicate lost billions in a transaction which the world had regarded as a spearing process.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks opened lower in New York with the market active. Declines ranged from fractions to more than a point. All kinds of issues began the new year on a lower level. Most of the orders received by commission houses over the holiday were to sell. Business began with the largest supply of stocks known in several days. There was a good deal of profit taking by people who have been hanging on for a raise, and also by important interests. Short covering terminated with Friday, and technical conditions were much changed at the start of trading today. Within half an hour the market was steadier and some issues had recovered part of losses. But the list still ranged below the level at which it ended last year.

The sinking of the steamship Persia had an unsettling influence and doubtless caused some liquidation. It is also reported that foreign selling of American securities was on an extensive scale. In high circles the reaction today caused no surprise and would have been expected even without a new controversy over submarine warfare in sight.

EARLY NEW YORK DECLINES.

Among weakest issues were Alaska Gold, Erie, New York Central, Mexican Petroleum and Texas Oil. There was a downward tendency for a number which have recently attained record high prices.

Declines at 10:15 included American Can ¼, American Smelting ½, American Sugar ⅝, Anaconda ⅝, Chino ⅛, Utah ¾, Inspiration ⅝, Butte & Superior ½, Erie 1, Baltimore & Ohio ⅝, Canadian Pacific ¾, Chesapeake & Ohio ½, New York Central ⅞, Northern Pacific ⅝b, Pennsylvania ½, Reading ⅝, Southern Pacific ⅝, Union Pacific ⅝, U. S. Steel ⅛, American Locomotive ⅞, Baldwin ⅞, Colorado Fuel ⅝, Crucible Steel ⅞, California Petroleum ¾, Mexican Petroleum ¼ at 122¾ after opening at 119½, Texas Co. 2½, Great Northern Ore ¾, Studebaker ¼ and Westinghouse ⅝.

Anglo-French bonds were up ¼ at 94⅝, but had sold at 94⅞.

Among gains were Rock Island ⅛ and St. Paul ⅛.

SENTIMENT UNSETTLED.

A New York dispatch says in regard to the decline: "Wall Street was again acutely disturbed by the news from the Mediterranean reporting additional submarine activity. The speculative element had regarded the sinking of the Persia as nullified as a market influence by the admission that the vessel was armed, but when news of the loss of the Glengyle was received before the opening the situation was unsettled again. When business commenced there were heavy offerings of stock all around the room."

Towards the end of the first hour the market was decidedly weaker. Selling pressure not only was resumed, but become stronger.

BOSTON OPENED STEADY.

The Boston market was steady at the opening and remained stronger relatively than New York, although prices here eased off. Among early declines were Butte & Superior ¾, American Zinc ⅝, Calumet & Arizona ¼, Copper Range ¾, Granby 1, Isle Royale ¼, Old Dominion ½, Lake ⅝, Shattuck-Arizona ⅝, Trinity ½, Ventura ¼, United Fruit 1½ and Boston & Maine ½.

U. S. Smelting sold at 55, its highest record price.

It is reported that electrolytic copper has sold for 22½ cents a pound for delivery as far ahead as June.

SULPHURIC ACID IN DEMAND.

Besides producing products which are in great demand as incentives to crop culture, fertilizer corporations are reaping their share of benefits accruing from the war in Europe. Sulphuric acid is a munition of great value. Some leading fertilizer concerns did not delay increasing capacity for making it as soon as their managers realized how the foreign demand would expand.

IT PAID TO ENLARGE.

The Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co. was one which enlarged its facilities in this respect. In nine months after the war began it disposed of 20,000 tons of sulphuric acid. In this fiscal year, which began with June, the company is expected to report the sale of more than 100,000 tons at an average price exceeding $50 a ton. Near the end of last year it could have sold 1,000 tons for $80 a ton, if it had had it on hand. It is believed that this corporation may report for the current fiscal year net profits of $4,500,000 or more from such output alone.

BIG RISE IN PRICES.

Before the war this acid was selling at from $6 to $7 a ton. The advance in potash from less than $35 a ton since the war began to about $500 indicates that fertilization of the soil this year will be expensive. Potash production in this country at present is only about forty tons a day. It is said that one fertilizer concern which has from a 1,000 to 2,000 tons of potash in stock, is asking more than $700 a ton for it.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Texas Co.'s oil profits for the last three months of 1915 are said to have been at the rate of 40 per cent. on its $30,000,000 stock. In four years it increased its sales 130 per cent.

The balance earned last year by the Atlantic, Gulf & West Indies Co., after deducting interest, depreciation and sinking funds for subsidiaries, is expected to be between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000.

Aside from banks, railroads and public utility corporations, business concerns in the United States at the end of last year were estimated to total 250,000. Forty-five hundred of them had annual sales totalling from $1,000,000 to $5,000,000, while the business of 462 exceeded $5,000,000.

Quicksilver production in the United States last year amounted, according to government figures, to $1,768,225, compared with $811,680 in 1914.

Boston & Albany's operating revenues for December will exceed those for that 1914 month. Its November gain was $1,645,460, or nearly 28 per cent. For eleven months it reports an increase of $16,031,542, or 5.4 per cent.

Total interest and dividend payments in this country this month will, it is believed, total about $350,000,000. The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. will disburse more than $7,500,000 in dividends.

BIG SHOE TRADE SEASON FORECASTED

The coming year is expected to be one of the best that the boot and shoe business has ever seen, according to authorities. An army of buyers began to arrive in this city today, and by the end of next week it is expected there will be about 600 here, twice as many as usually appear.

The increased number of buyers is due to the fact that dealers have held off from purchasing, and as a result the manufacturers are still tied up with Winter styles. At present the manufacturers have more orders than ever before, and the spring trade will come with a rush.

Although New England is the largest shoe centre in the United States, it is said that only about eight firms are handling war orders. These concerns are working double shifts in an effort to fulfill their contracts.

Owing to the uncertainty induced by the outbreak of the war, dealers held back last year, and as a result the first six months were among the worst in the shoe business. In order to stimulate trade, the manufacturers began to put out what are known as "millinery" shoes. These shoes were fancy footwear, with each manufacturer putting out his own style, so that the people did not know what to purchase. Trade became practically demoralized, and last Fall the dealers were short of shoes. They were forced to buy later, with the result that the manufacturers are still busy getting out Winter styles.

FEARS RELAPSE IN MUNITION STOCKS

By B. C. FORBES.

New York, Jan. 3.—Will 1916 end with a whoop?

Nineteen hundred and fifteen did, especially on the Stock Exchange.

Certainly 1916 opens enthusiastically.

My belief is that it is time for holders of stocks to seriously consider selling greatly boomed "war stocks" and to invest in more dependable securities.

The chances are that the war will end this year.

In that case munition stocks would suffer a relapse, not to say a collapse.

If the war should last beyond 1916, what are the prospects regarding Europe's ability to continue enormous purchases of war materials here?

From high British sources I am informed that keen regret has been felt for months that such a deluge of orders was sent to the United States during the excitement and chaos which attended the opening of the war, and that comparatively few important additional contracts are now under consideration.

PEACE WILL BRING ORDERS.

Britain is feeling the financial pinch caused chiefly by her inordinate imports from the United States.

I find that our most responsible and far sighted financiers are anxious to see, not a further increase in war orders, but a reduction.

By gradually diverting men and machinery from war to peace products, they argue, the danger of industrial collapse on the declaration of peace would be minimized.

As a matter of cold fact peace will bring very large orders from Europe, though, happily, for constructive purposes.

Already contracts aggregating many millions of dollars are being placed, calling for delivery after hostilities cease.

All things considered, therefore, holders of purely "war stocks" should take their bearings afresh.

Of course many "melons," "windfalls" and other largesse will be announced from now on.

PREDICTS OIL BOOM.

The Pennsylvania Railroad system today announces an increase for November of over 100 per cent. in its net operating income. This is a phenomenal record.

Now it seems to me that conservative investors should give attention to sound railroads.

The average price of American railroad stocks is today below the best average of every year since 1900, not excepting 1915 or 1914.

Does not a recovery appear probable before 1916 runs its course?

We know that the public as well as railroad regulators have modified their unfriendly attitude to the railroads.

We know, also, that an abundance of traffic is assured for quite some time ahead.

We know, too, that the financing of railroads is now proving more feasible. The average quotations for industrial stocks last month was 30 points above the highest pinnacle ever before reached.

This fact is worth noting.

My own humble opinion is that there is an inspiring future for the oil industry, as everything points to unlimited expansion in the use of oil for fuel, both on sea and land.

WORKMEN DIVIDE $350,000 BONUS

Youngstown, Ohio, Jan. 3.—The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, one of the concerns which is to be included in the new Vanderbilt-Stotesbury steel merger, has announced as a New Year's gift to their employes a bonus of 5 per cent. on their yearly earnings for 1915. The amount to be distributed, according to officials, will approximate $350,000.

CHAMBER PLANS FURTHER RATE PROTEST

Plans for opposing rate discrimination against New England proposed by the Southern railroad and steamship lines will be discussed at a meeting of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday afternoon, in Room B of the Chamber Building.

All members of the chamber have been urged to attend, and contributions are asked to a fund to be used in presenting the case to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The Committee on Transportation of the chamber has filed with the commission a protest against the rates which the Southern lines propose to put into effect. The meeting Wednesday is to discuss further steps to be taken to assure the defeat of the discrimination by the Southern carriers.

The Southern lines propose to adopt tariffs which impose a differential upon New England in favor of New York amounting to a tax of from forty cents to a dollar per ton on practically all shipments made from this territory to the Southeast.

CHICAGO'S 1915 GRAIN CLEARINGS

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Chicago Board of Trade clearings for 1915 were the largest on record, amounting to $118,417,846, an increase of $34,517,847 over 1914.

Flour and grain received in Chicago in 1915 amounted to 371,135,000 bushels, a decrease of 45,738,000 bushels from 1914. Shipments totalled 299,990,000 bushels, a decrease of 17,203,000 bushels.

Public Sentiment Should Compel Peace Action

THE instinct, the passion for peace is stirring within the consciousness of the whole world at this moment. They have discussed peace in the Italian Parliament, in the British Parliament, in the French Chamber of Deputies and in the German Reichstag.

These stirrings for peace are the manifestations of instinct in men which tells them that this war cannot be fought to a finish, because such a war under such conditions of equality between the belligerents means annihilation of the white race, the inevitable sucking into the war's vortex of the neutral nations, the devitalizing of all the white man's forces and the wrecking of the white man's civilization.

Not one of the public officials of America or of any of the neutral countries, not one of the leaders of public thought and action, official or private, but realizes that sooner or later, before either party is exhausted, this war must cease.

They know that the contest is too even, the resources of the belligerents are too well matched, to permit any prospect of the defeat of one side until the other side lies almost equally prostrate.

Greater efficiency, greater unity of purpose and superior strategical positions which permit them to concentrate more rapidly in any direction and thus to hold the initiative, so far have more than compensated Germany, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria for their inferiority in numbers.

It is a military axiom that victory goes, not to the potential numbers, but to numbers in actual point of contact. The interior position of the central powers gives them the command of the initiative which their efficiency and unity enable them to employ to its fullest advantage and has so far given them the victory everywhere except in France.

The war is now a year and a half old, and in every direction the central powers have extended their territory. They are now holding subject millions of their enemies' people and thousands of square miles of their enemies' territory, and they have not yet been obliged to assume the defensive.

They have been strong enough to storm the defensive positions of their enemies, to advance over marshes and rivers and mountains, through snows and canyons, in strange territory without the benefit of railroads which their enemies defending their own country had.

If with all their alleged inferiority of numbers the central powers can thus overcome their enemy under such disadvantageous circumstances, what will be the number of allied troops required to defeat them when they take the defensive and the entente allies are obliged in their turn to cross mountains and canyons and rivers and marshes, with no railroads to help them while the central powers act on the defensive behind the barriers of nature and supplied with the great railroads at their rear?

It will require "odds beyond arithmetic" to take the initiative from the central powers and to force them back into their own territory, and even then the war will only have just begun. And yet 15,000,000 men, the flower of the white race, have already fallen!

When every intelligent human being knows that such a war cannot be fought to a finish, then everybody knows that now is the best time to begin the work of establishing peace.

Peace awaits the organized action of the neutral white nations; waits upon the courage of the leaders of the public thought official or private, in America alone.

Every man who has any leadership in our American life, who does not stir himself to promote an organized movement among the governments of the world for peace, will have on his conscience some responsibility for the men who will fall needlessly in this terrible contest which may thus be uselessly prolonged.

Since the AMERICAN began four months ago to agitate for peace and urged our government to organize all the neutral powers for peace, nearly two million more men have fallen.

Why does the American government hesitate to take some action?

Perhaps the President and Congress are waiting for instructions from the American people. If they want to hear the voice of the people, let us raise it so it may be heard in Washington for peace.

Let us make it clear to our public servants, those who represent us before the world, that we want them to put the power of this nation on the side of peace by every means short of blood-shedding that can be devised.

We know that it is not the exception but the rule that wars are stopped by a combination of neutral powers before the weaker belligerent is extinguished. We know that most of the boundaries of Europe have been determined by neutral nations who interfered to maintain the balance of power and to prevent the wiping out of a defeated enemy by its victor.

Our interference has a nobler purpose than the mere maintenance of a balance of power. We must interfere for the salvation of the white race.

Let us hold public meetings everywhere to pass resolutions in favor of the organization of the neutral countries both for the maintenance of neutral rights and for the creation of a power capable of stopping this war.

Let us compel our government by the overwhelming force of public sentiment to take the leadership in this movement which must come sooner or later, if not under the leadership of the United States, then under the leadership of some smaller but nobler nation.

Once-Overs

Often when you see a man who is a down-and-outer, you say, "Isn't that too bad," but you don't make any effort to assist him to a better life.

There are many "bums" who might be respected citizens if they had been given the right sort of help and encouragement when they were in need of it.

They have had hard luck; they have become discouraged; their friends turned against them and they are drifting downward.

Undoubtedly you know men of this sort.

If you have not tried to help them you are partially to blame for their downfall.

It shouldn't be a difficult thing for you to have a talk with a man whom you know to be discouraged. Now this will help a great deal, but it is not all you should do. If he is out of a job, you should help him to land one. If he's hungry, you should try to satisfy his immediate needs. If his family are in want, you should lend a hand to help them.

Many men become dishonest because they are unable to meet the family expenses, and do not know how to go about it to work out their problem. Help at the right moment might have saved them.

Help a man when he's beginning to slip instead of looking at him when he hits the bottom of the hill and saying "Too bad!"

Milestones in the March of Public Ownership

IN the Borough of Brooklyn the electric light charge for residences is 12 cents per k. w. It is furnished by a private company. Kansas City, Kansas, is furnished by a publicly owned plant and pays from 6 to 3 cents for lighting and from 2 to 1½ cents for power.

The privately owned plant has announced recently that it will no longer compete with the municipal-owned plant, but will confine itself to the other side of the river, Kansas City, Mo., where there is no public-owned plant.

THE BEST RESOLUTION THAT CAN BE MADE

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

Nothing to Wear

AND even old man Blue-Jay
Is lolling at his ease
And wearing all the latest things
Beside the Summer seas,
And as for Signor Hermit Thrush,
I know that all day long
The thickets of palmetto
Re-echo with his song.

BUT still we have the Snowbirds,
We see them now and then;
You know the lady, I suppose—
She looks like Jenny Wren.
She struts about and tries to act
As if she didn't care,
But she can't go to Florida—
SHE HAS NO CLOTHES TO WEAR

THEY might afford the trip, of course;
But everybody knows
One can't be happy on a tour
Unless one has the clothes.
And very well she understands
What people all would say
If she turned up at a resort
In that old suit of gray.

AND so while all the wealthy
In costumes like the flowers
Beneath the perfumed tropic trees
Are spending happy hours,
Poor little Mrs. Snowbird
Still pipes a cheerful song
And acts as if she liked to stay
At home all Winter long!

OUR street is very quiet;
We journey to and fro,
Past houses bleak and empty
And covered deep with snow.
For nearly all our neighbors
Long since have gone away
To travel through the southland
Until the first of May.

THE wealthy Robin family
Left home the first of all,
They've been, we hear at Ormonde
Since early in the Fall.
And little Miss Oriole,
Last season's reigning peach,
Is wearing regal costumes
To stun 'em at Palm Beach.

Still It's Something

The half million dollars the Pullman Company has distributed among its employes will give the equivalent of a quarter tip per trip to every porter on the line.

P. S.—When we note the words tip and porter and trip and quarter in the foregoing paragraph we're sorry we didn't make a verse out of it.

Over Their Heads

It won't get Lloyd George anything to tell Englishmen the war is a cyclone. Very few of his hearers have ever lived in Kansas.

Who Can Blame Him?

Henry A. Wise Wood's leaving the Navy Board so that he can be free to criticise it reminds one of the man who went to a bum show on a pass and at the end of the first act went out and bought a ticket.

Ever Read "Alone in Cuba"?

When Secretary Garrison says Colonel Roosevelt reduced the army by 11,000, the Colonel's admirers think he must mean the Spanish army.

Let Him Be Definite

In view of General Goethal's assertion that the Panama slides were not unexpected it would be interesting to know how many more he expects and just when he expects them.

Quite Inadvertently

Just as the Japs figured that they could get into the war without its costing them anything along comes a submarine and sinks one of their liners.

Sooner or Later

The time must come when Mr. Wilson will resume the reading of the London Times at the breakfast table.

At It Again

Penrose, Crane and Barnes are getting ready to save the party. Four years ago they saved it—for the Democrats.

Coming Soon!

If automobiles keep going down and gasoline keeps going up it will not be long before they will be throwing in Flivvers with every gallon of fuel.

The Grip

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects.

PART ONE

ONE touch of sneezing makes the whole world kin. Even this time of world-shaking Armageddons and tottering thrones and quivering national credits, the burning question of the day everywhere, upon the street, in the cars, at public assemblies, is: "Have you got it?"

In fact, so nearly simultaneously does the question rise to our lips whenever we meet a friend, that the greeting is almost antiphonal, or responsive, like the Christian salutations in Russia—one salutant giving half, and the other the second half, or the cheerful "Gott strafe" vocal epidemic, which is now raging in Central Europe.

Misery Loves Company

There is even a sort of consolation about its ubiquity, because misery dearly loves company, and among the minor pleasures of life and most popular indoor sports not the least is the cheerful sympathetic swapping of symptoms.

One, however, of the subconscious consolations which we give ourselves about it is a pure illusion, and that is that there is anything modern or recherche and up-to-date about it.

On the contrary, it is of a most respectable, not to say venerable, antiquity; many of our good things are new, but most of our ills are old, very old.

World epidemics of the grip under various names have been clearly recognized ever since the fourteenth century, and would probably have been so earlier had medical and official reporters been sufficiently intelligent.

Its very name, influenza, goes back to the Middle Ages and embalms the popular Italian belief that it was due to the malignant "influence" of a star, or a comet, or some other of the heavenly bodies on account of the rapidity and universality of its spread.

At least four clear-cut and world-encircling epidemics of it have been recorded in the nineteenth century, as well as many minor and local ones, the last of which was in 1889-90, with several echoes and secondary reverberations in the decade following. The earliest of the four is said to have put the armies of both Napoleon and Wellington in the Peninsular campaign practically out of business for several weeks and to have attacked and prostrated nearly a third of the population of the Spanish Peninsula within four or five days.

Where It Comes From

Its origin now is fairly clear and is no more heavenly than are the sensations which it produces. It does not come down from above in any sense, but up from below, from dirt; plain, stewy, sweaty, steaming human dirt; the kind that comes from overcrowding and infrequent ablutions and perpetual seething in the steam of other people's breath.

Like many other things good and bad it comes from the East. The earlier great epidemics always started in Russia and in the remotest and most easterly provinces at that, so that in the seventeen and eighteen hundreds it was known as the "Russian influenza."

This, however, was an injustice to the Great White Empire, for a little investigation quickly showed that it came into Russia with the tea caravans from Western China. Western China had caught it from Central, and finally it was traced back to that great seething human stew and hive, the Yangste-Kiang Valley.

Here or in the sweltering race slums to the south start all our great world pestilences which we are able to trace to their beginning, the black death, smallpox and cholera, and it is also believed to be the native home of typhoid, tuberculosis and pneumonia. This is the real Yellow Peril, and the conviction is steadily growing among sanitarians that to clean up China would be to enormously protect the whole civilized world.

In-Shoots

The humble man driving a span of mules is more to be admired than the well dressed trainer of a troupe of performing dogs.

If George Washington had chopped a cord of wood instead of that cherry sapling, he would not have brightened the pages of juvenile literature.

It is all right to listen to foolish advice if you do not follow it.

The person constantly on the lookout for flaws is the most undesirable companion that a human being can select.
